FISHERMEN'S WIVES in Gloucester frequently prepare whiting with a favor accent from their own ethnic background. The result is Whiting Italian Style.

Whiting Recipe Has An Ethnic Background

Searching for protein foods that nourish and satisfy yet are easy on the food budget? The National Marine Fisheries Service has a solution for you. Look seaward is the advice they offer.

If you don't live in an area where fresh fish are hauled into port, take a look at what the seafood or supermarket has to offer. You'll find an amazing array of both fresh and frozen fish, dozens of varieties and market styles, and many of these remain moderate in cost.

The science, hard-to-find fish are higher in price naturally; however, there are many varieties that are plentiful, caught and processed during their greatest abundance, and the savings passed on to you, the consumer.

Among the moderate-priced fish are a number of whole, pan-dressed fish such as whiting. Whiting is a favorite fish in Gloucester, Mass. where most of the catch is landed.

They are members of the cod family and have tender, white, lean, firm-textured flesh that is very tasty. Whiting, like other fish, is high in protein and also contains other valuable nutrients.

Fishermen's wives in Gloucester frequently prepare whiting with an exciting flavor accent from their own ethnic background. Whiting-Italian Style is an example that provides hearty eating, vivid flavor, and protein-packed satisfaction.

The recipe is so simple and easy, all you need to do is dip the fish into Italian dressing (or oil and vinegar if you wish), then coat with Italian-flavored or seafood coating mix. Bake until flaky and enjoy plain or with a favorite tartar sauce.

While you are relishing this savory entree, we'll wager that you'll also be basking in the knowledge of how you have pampered the food budget.
