

BOOSTS AMERICANISM

August Diez, Jr., a printer in Richmond, Va., has printed more than 3,000,000 copies of the Declaration of Independence, frequently at a loss to himself, and they have been circulated through our schools by the Sertoma (Service to Mankind) Club, the Elks of Boulder, Colorado, and the Boy Scouts, among other organizations.

Mr. R. T. Johnson and family are now residing in their new home on Springland Drive.

In 1953, electric power companies in two states, Ohio and Tennessee, used coal to supply the energy for 99% of their power generation.

John Clappison Sells Insurance

Farmington High School News

Material for this column is prepared by members of the Farmington High School Journalism Class.

PHIL WARRINER WINS CITATION FOR SPORTS STORY

Phil Warner, class of '54, won a citation for his sports writing at the Journalism Conference at Michigan State College Wednesday, October 29.

The sports story which Warner entered in competition with other sports writers throughout the state was published in the March 4, 1954, Blue and White.

The report was of the game with Van Dyke which Farmington won and which clinched the Inter-Lakes League basketball championship for the Falcons.

Phil was sports editor of the Blue and White and is now a freshman at Hillsdale.

Name FHS Talent Show Contestants

The annual Student Council Talent Show will be held this Saturday, December 4, at 8 p.m. in the Farmington High Auditorium.

Tryouts were held Monday, November 22, at 3 p.m. and Tuesday, November 23, at 7 p.m.

The judges for auditioning were Vivian Auger, Jerry Rhee, Jon Schutte, Chuck Urquhart, Larry Lynch, and James Geiger, all representing the Student Council.

The talent to be on the program is as follows: "The Four Quads" a group of Art Hamlin, John Fawcett, Chuck Dean, Gary Hamlin, and Vince Curcio; the Hacha Five made up of Jane Boyce, Marilyn Martin, Dorothy Baldwin, Mary Ann Ohman and Sue Martin.

Nancy Mitchell and Betty Lou Potts with a piano duet; Jane Grinham will perform a piano solo; Vicki Clegg will sing solo; and Carolyn Matteson, who will do her own accompanying.

The Discodettes, a quartet made up of Sue Larson, Judy Hoag, Berle White and Glynne Nelson, will perform.

Others will include an accordian solo by Bill Dickerson; selections by a German band made up of Dick Grisham, Ray Johnson, Jack Phalen, and Craig Borchardt; a piano solo by Nancy Mitchell; and a Charleston dance routine by Alice Langford.

The Good Worms, a band made up of Roy Donnan, Herb Brumman, Louis McLellan, Dick Kingsley, Paul Lachmann, George Parsons, Fred Menke, Fred Bending, and John Clark will entertain.

Dick Cairns will do an accordian solo, and a trio made up of Deanna White, Berle White and Shirley Temple will sing.

In general, they are all very happy. They feel just as the students at the University of Michigan, that their subjects consume the majority of their time.

F. H. S. Grad Doing Student Teaching Here

Miss Barbara Howell, class of '50, a senior at Central Michigan College, Mrs. Pleasant, is receiving part of her teacher training here at Farmington High.

Miss Howell is sitting in on different classes to help acquaint her with some of the problems she will face in teaching.

Spanish, World History, and American Government are a few of the classes she is attending here at F. H. S.

Teachers Discuss College With Local MSC Students

Conferenced with five Farmington High graduates from the class of '54 were: Mrs. Mary Virginia Carley interviewed Patricia Cox, Kathryn Gardner, Sue Runde, Paul Hoofnagle, and Arthur Schadenbrand to learn their views on college life.

In general, they are all very happy. They feel just as the students at the University of Michigan, that their subjects consume the majority of their time.

John Clappison Sells Insurance

In And Around Springfield

MRS. RALPH EVERETT

Phone 2381-J

On November 24, J. C. Koski of Ridgeway Drive traveled to Welling, West Virginia, where he attended the funeral services of Mr. and Mrs. S. Shadow, who were killed in an automobile accident. The late Mr. Shadow was a cousin of Mr. Koski.

Mr. William W. Thomas and Mr. Douglas Thomas from Bowling Green, Ohio, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Thomas of Ridgeway Drive for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Davis of Brownell Avenue entertained guests on Thanksgiving Day. They were Mr. John Cernak and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bissell from Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dobbins of Ridgeway were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sampson, also of Brownell, on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonough and family of Springfield

Drive traveled to Big Rapids, Michigan, to spend the holidays. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pettaff, Mrs. McDonough's parents.

On Friday evening, November 26, Mr. Wesley Mitchell of Springfield Drive entertained his men's club. Cards and chess were played by members. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wurme of Brownell Avenue entertained Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sampson, also of Brownell, on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. James McMonagle of Holly Hill Road spent the holidays in Bay City. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Rogers.

A family reunion was an added feature on Thanksgiving Day for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wixon of Eleven Mile Road. The reunion

THANK YOU

For Making It Necessary for Us to Move to LARGER QUARTERS!

Your increased participation in our many fine insurance plans has necessitated securing of enlarged office facilities. We are now able to service you better than ever before.

YOU ARE INVITED TO VISIT OUR NEW OFFICE

33304 GRAND RIVER
NEXT TO FORMER OFFICE

GRACE INSURANCE COMPANY

"YOUR CITIZEN'S MAN"

Phone Farmington 0418

Make Your Selection
From Our Grounds

All Types and Kinds of
Nursery Stock for Other Plantings

Imported BULBS

TULIPS, CROCUS

HYACINTHS

DAFFODILS

STEINKOPF NURSERY

20815 Farmington Road

Phone 0730

YOU GET:
... brilliant new styling that was inspired by the Thunderbird, the great Ford personal car.

... new Angle-Poised Ball-Joint Front Suspension that levels the big bumps; cushions out annoying road-jolt jolts.

... Ford's new Trigger-Torque Power, that gives you more responsive performance throughout the driving range of your car; makes driving more fun in today's traffic.

YOU CAN CHOOSE:

... from 16 distinctive new body styles and get just what you want from Ford's broad range of single and two-tone finishes.

... from 3 great '55 Ford engines: the 162-h.p. V-8; the mightier 182-h.p. V-8; Special V-8, offered with Fordomatic in Fairlanes and Station Wagons; or the new 120-h.p. V-block Six.

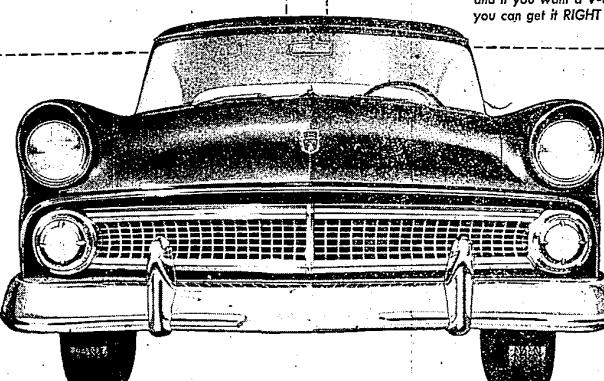

... any one of Ford's fine power units: power steering, power brakes, 4-way power seat, power windows—and new Speed-trigger Fordomatic Drive.

and if you want a V-8 you can get it RIGHT NOW!

IN YOUR NEW

55

FORD

DELIVERED

PRICES FROM

$1605.97

PLUS STATE TAX

Prices may vary according to individual dealer's pricing policy.

F.D.A.F.

Come in and pick a new '55 Ford that suits you just right
... and let's talk business! When you find how easy it is to own a new Ford, we believe you'll want to TRADE NOW!

BERLING - McHUGH, INC.

FORD SALES AND SERVICE
Farmington, Mich.

Farm. Phones 2690-1-2

Folder Aids Planning Of Home Budgeting, Finance

Today, it isn't just the man of the house who comes with money problems, his wife has a hand in all this too. To help her understand the family finances, a new "Finance Folder" has been issued by the American Association of University Women and published for them by Changing Times.

The Finance Folder gives practical advice on budgeting, money management, and family records; financing a car, personal loans, mortgages, home improvement loans; auto, fire and health insurance; and how to invest wisely on a small scale.

A handy check list for recording important financial facts for the family is an extra feature of this new guide for women.

The folder will be used by women all over the country as an aid in their financial education. It is available to the public, as well as to AAUW members.

1625 GRAND RIVER, Between Lander and Terry, DETROIT 10

1151 SOUTH MAIN STREET, ROYAL OAK

2227 MICHIGAN AVENUE, BRIGHTON

12415 LAURELWOOD, at GRAND RIVER (Bellevue) DETROIT

3301 PLYMOUTH ROAD (Shelton Shopping Center) LIVONIA

WALLED LAKE KEEGO HARBOR, BRIGHTON

33411 Grand River, Farmington

Michigan, Idaho As Deer Hunting States

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more deer hunters than Idaho has population, says Warren W. Chase, professor of wildlife management at the University of Michigan. Chase adds that the number of hunters get their game, while almost 70 percent of Idaho mule deer are successful.

He bases this on the smaller population there as well as the fact that Idaho hunters can go after elk, moose, muledeer, big horn sheep, antelope and mountain goats.

Michigan has more