BETTY MERESHAK MA. 6-3135

Christmas Eve in Woodcreek was made especially beautiful by the carolers who sang "Silent Night" and "Joy to the World" echoing over the hills and country roads. The two groups of children who took time out of their busy holiday schedule in bringing warmth and happiness to many grateful hearts.

One group included Margie and Dick Lam, Margaret Hanson, David Busch, Jack Swift, Mary Jane O'Donnell, Alfred Smith, and Dwight Temple.

The other group included Bryan McCarthy, Denny Eynon, Marty McGuire, Donald Horton, Carol and Judy Trippett, Pam Musch, Wendy Davenport, Denise Sasy, Karen Johnson and Sarah Horton. The Kennedys of Wellington Road would particularly like to express appreciation to all the children and a special thanks to the group who so graciously returned a second time to sing for their guests.

The guests included Alex's mother, Mrs. W. Kennedy of London, Ontario; an aunt, Mrs. Arthur Mitchell of Toronto; Edith's father, Harry Miller of St. Clair Shores; and her aunt, Mrs. C. J. Jones of Detroit. All expressed their sincere enjoyment. Alex and Edith felt that the spirit of Christmas was well exemplified by the luscious singing of these young voices.

The Woodcreek Women's Association will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, January 10, at 12 noon at the home of Helen Weightman, 28887 Millbrook Drive. Healsys from Wilmet, Illinois. The guests arrived on Friday, December 23, and stayed until the following Wednesday. Roy and Ethel remarked that this was the nicest Christmas and the biggest family reunion they have had in fifteen years.

On Monday, December 26, the entire Nelson party were guests of the Conrad Lams of Westbrook Court. The host soon discovered that their guests shared their mutual interest in instrumental music. They combined their talents and soon the two Healy children, two of the Lam children, with Dr. Lam acting as chief hepatic, were giving out with some real gone live. The jam session was thoroughly enjoyed by audience and musicians alike.

The Lams also showed movies of their recent trip to South America. Thought for the year: Yule logs die, and friends must leave. But keep the joys of Christmas Eve.

The Nelsons held open house on Monday, January 2, and their many guests were delighted by the magnificent Christmas tree which measured fully eight feet across, filling half of their living room.

The Roy Nelson home on Wellington Road became headquarters for a warm Christmas family reunion. Out of town guests were

Rabbit Population Up Over Last Year

Rabbit hunting in southern Michigan promises to be even better than last year when hunters bagged more than 1,300,000 cottontails.

Reports from the Conservation Department's Rose Lake wildlife experiment station show an estimated 20 per cent increase in rabbit populations over last year. Rabbit kill at Rose Lake has increased this year although hunting pressure is down four per cent.

Moderate weather following December's cold spell promises better hunting for the remainder of the season which extends through January 31. Cold weather caused rabbits to huddle up and also kept hunting pressure down.

Draft calls will run below 100 men a month during the next six months - the lowest level since the start of the Korean War, according to the Defense Department.
