NEW SALK VACCINE MORE EFFECTIVE, STUDY REVEALS

"Final reports on the Salk polio vaccine indicated that the 1955 vaccine was more effective than that used in 1954," said Dr. Robert J. Mason, chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee of the Oakland County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"Most of us will recall," Dr. Mason pointed out, "that the official evaluation report on the vaccine field trial, delivered last April, said the vaccine was from 60 to 90 per cent effective.

"Government statistics involving approximately 5,000,000 children in 11 states for 1955, show the vaccine to be 76 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio with increasingly good results as new figures come in."

A big difference between use of the vaccine in the field trial and its use in 1955 was that in 1954 nearly all the children studied received three doses of vaccine, he explained. This year most of the children on whom there are reports received only a single injection.

Dr. Mason said that if an effectiveness of 76 per cent was achieved with one dose of vaccine, it seems reasonable to suppose that three doses of the present vaccine would prove far more effective.

"The field trial vaccine of 1954 contained a preservative which tended to weaken it in time," he explained. "Present methods of production have overcome this difficulty."

It is interesting to know that other countries using the Salk vaccine likewise are beginning to report favorably on it, notably Denmark and Canada, where the largest inoculation programs outside of the United States were carried on.

"The vaccine is not 100 per cent effective," Dr. Mason said. "No vaccine is, but research supported by the March of Dimes is being continued to bring the effectiveness as close to total protection as is possible."

mended in the southwest section of the Township.

Dr. Goddard stated that "those persons in the proposed water district who feel that the cost is too great should keep in mind that the savings on fire insurance alone in many cases would more than offset the cost of the assessment over a period of 20 years."

Mrs. Philip Newberg, secretary of the Committee, reported that 89% of all property owners contacted thus far have signed in favor of a water system. Mrs. Newberg added that March 15 has been set as the deadline for the completion of the petitioning of improved property.

the purpose of placing status of trees or removal of soil or structures and requested that the City restore Power Road to the condition it was prior to the widening.

A total of five bids were received by the Council on the purchase of a new Plymouth Police Car. The two lowest bidders were requested to submit alternate proposals on the installation of stand and transmissions, both with and without Power Pack equipment.

A special meeting of the Council has been set for Friday, February 17, to discuss off-street parking. The meeting is being called at the request of a group of Farmington businessmen. Councilman Harper Chapman suggested that the Council give serious consideration to the allocation of funds in the 1956-57 budget for the employment of a recreation director.

the lowest paid police officers in Oakland County. They pointed out that the starting pay in most police departments is the same as the top wage now being paid to Farmington City policemen.

Members of the Council pointed out that because of budget limitations little could be done until after the close of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

However, they indicated that adjustments might be made in the 1956-57 operating budget. In the meantime, Police Chief Joseph DeBevoise has been requested to secure information on wage scales of police departments in other communities of comparable size in the metropolitan area. The information will be presented at the hearing.

Courts Respect Right To Privacy, Authorities Say

Material for this column is prepared as an informational service by the State Bar of Michigan.

IF YOU'RE LIKE ME... You have nothing in particular to hide, and yet you're thankful the law shields your private life, even on the witness stand.

There's nothing in my private personal life to be particularly ashamed of. But just like you I figure that many things I do and say are my own business. The innocent things I do in the privacy of my home, for example, shouldn't concern anyone else, or what I tell my minister in confessional when I turn to him for help, or what I confide to my wife.

For the most part your laws back us up in this, even when it comes to our testimony in a court of law. After all, the laws we live by are merely reflections of the way of life we believe in. We've built a great nation on the philosophy of leaving the other fellow alone if he wants it that way and isn't harming anyone.

So, even though our whole court system is geared to get every pertinent fact from sworn witnesses who may be punished for perjury if they do not tell the truth, there are some exceptions which safeguard certain intimate details of your personal life.

As a general rule anyone who is of sufficient understanding and of enough mind to be considered able to set or hear, or otherwise to communicate, may be called (or even forced) to testify in any civil or criminal action. However, when you're a party to a trial, the law usually will not allow testimony from persons who have had certain close, personal relationships with you.

Your clergyman, no matter what your faith, cannot repeat in court any information obtained while he was acting as your confidant, spiritual counselor, unless you expressly permit it.

A licensed physician or surgeon may not under most conditions disclose in court any information or opinion based on facts he gained while giving you medical care, unless you give your consent.

Your attorney, too, is bound to secrecy concerning any information you have given him while he was acting in his professional capacity. Unless you specifically give consent, neither your attorney nor any of his employees may testify.

Most people believe that a husband or wife cannot testify for or against one another. In general this is true. Neither is a man permitted to testify for or against his wife if she is permitted to disclose what is known as a "private communication" made by one to the other during marriage, without the consent of the other. This covers almost everything that is said between a married couple.

However, a husband or wife can be examined in court, without permission of the other, in cases involving such matters as abandonment of wife or child, paternity, non-support, or acts of personal violence.

Like I said earlier, your private life belongs only to you, so long as you live right.

Auto Accidents

Gary Beck, 18, of Dearborn, was struck down last week while checking the mirror of a car in which he had been riding. The car, driven by William Deagon of Detroit, had stopped on US16 at Roosevelt Street because of a heavy traffic clutch.

The source of the trouble when the auto was struck from behind by one driven by Irving Gidday of Albion Street.

Knocked to the ground and under the car, Beck suffered lacerations on the left eye and concussion. He was taken to Redford Revere Hospital for treatment.

Four year old Norma Jean Beckett of 3483 Grand River was injured slightly late Saturday afternoon when the car in which she was riding with her father, struck the front of an auto parked at the curb on Grand River just east of Nine Mile Road.

The father suffered a bump on her forehead, requiring only first aid treatment.

CONTRACTS LET FOR PROJECTS ON US-16 EXPRESSWAY

Contracts were let last week by the State Highway Department to low bidders in the construction of four bridges and a road project on the Brighton to Farmington Expressway.

The projects included a bridge to carry Old Plank Road over the Expressway about two miles east of New Hudson, one to carry the Expressway over Millford Road north of New Hudson, one to carry Meadowbrook Road over the Expressway, and one to carry Hagerty Road over the Expressway.

The road project was for 7.6 miles of grading and drainage structures and dual 24 foot wide concrete pavement on the Expressway from Kent Lake east to Twelve Mile Road.
