MRS. R. L. COGGILL
GR. 4-1198

A welcome is extended to two new families in Normandy Hills: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Priefer and family of Thornbrook Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goyl and family of Argonne Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hsieh of 34685 Brittany Drive visited relatives in Buchanan, Michigan, last week end.

Mrs. Ruby Coggill of 23809 Farmington Road arrived home Wednesday from California in time to welcome Tom Brown, who is home from Albion College for the Easter holidays.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. Harold Luxem of 24355 Thornbrook Drive, whose mother died a week ago.

Plans For Teenage Road-E-O Under Way

Plans are now under way for the second annual Teenage Road-E-O in the Farmington area, sponsored by the Farmington Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Co-Chairmen for this year's event will be Fred Hamlin and Jack Hiltner.

Further information will be published at a later date concerning rules and regulations and the date and time for the Road-E-O. The event is tentatively scheduled for sometime in May.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The Farmington Woman's Club will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 24, at the home of Mrs. Harry Brundie, 33040 Hillcrest Avenue.

FAMILY INCOMES LESS FLEXIBLE, SAYS AUTHORITY

The use of incomes of modern-day families is becoming less and less flexible, with more money being set aside for fixed expenses.

Fixed expenses are described by Dr. James Cross, head of the home management department at Michigan State University, as those which are not quickly or easily changed, if at all. If within the cost of a family, they are based on long-time decisions.

Installation payments, insurance premiums and payments on a house are good examples of such fixed expenses. The security of an income family may go into fixed expenses. Then only two-thirds will remain for such items as food, clothing, gifts, recreation and car operating expenses.

This trend of having more money go into channels which have been set for a long period of time, such as mortgage payments, should influence every family when they make their budgets. After all, Dr. Cross explains, "the most a budget can do is open your eyes to whether you are using your money as you really want to. When you take on a fixed expense, you have committed yourself for a long time."

Life Expectancy, Population Gain

A child today can expect to live as long after he graduates from college as his grandfather could expect at birth. The Michigan Department of Health makes this observation on life expectancy figures. National records, says the health department, show that life expectancy in 1907 was 47.3 years, contrasted to an average lifetime of 68.4 years in 1950.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, State Health Commissioner, adds that studies of Michigan population present "some findings which may seem almost unbelievable, but are highly significant in terms of the need for broadened local public health services."

For example, the Commissioner said: In 1954, there were 400,000 more children from five to nineteen years of age in Michigan than there were in 1930. Births in the state have gone up from 99,106 in 1940 to over 190,000 yearly. And ratio of births in deaths has risen from 1.14 to 1.25. In 1940, 100 deaths in 1940 to 215 births per 100 deaths in 1954.

Dr. Heustis noted that one reason for the drop in deaths is the triumph over many old-time killers, such as scarlet fever, whooping cough and typhoid. He said the infant death rate in Michigan also has been cut — from 157.1 deaths per thousand live births in 1900 to 25 in 1954.

State Launches Mammoth Road Building Program

Michigan is now embarked on the greatest road-building program in its history, one that dwarfs construction work of the past ten years and one that may be greatly increased if Congress passes proposed legislation to increase highway federal aid allotments to the various states, as it freely proposed. Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler said last week.

The statement was made at a conference of State Highway Department road, bridge and soils engineers from all sections of the state.

The engineers met February 14-15 with Department and divisions heads and Lansing supervisory engineers to discuss plans for the 1956 construction program already under way.

Commissioner Ziegler told the some 375 Department Engineers and officials that funds available from state gasoline and weight taxes, Federal Aid and bond money raised under state statutes, will give Michigan an annual construction program of $150,000,000 for each of the next five years. Federal Aid increases may increase the program to the tremendous figure of $225,000,000 a year, the Commissioner said.

The magnitude of the present program and the prospective increase dwarfs the road-building programs of the Highway Department in the past ten years, the Commissioner said, recalling that from 1946 to 1951, years following the wartime shutdown of highway work and accumulation of a big backlog of needed projects, the annual rate of highway construction was only $22,000,000. In 1952, with bonding permitted to speed up Michigan's highway construction in Detroit, the annual construction program was boosted to some $43,000,000 and last year it was boosted to $55,000,000.

With the construction program being more than double this year, Department engineers face a terrific challenge to get the job done with only a comparatively small increase in engineering personnel.

A family celebration was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sandau, Hubbard Avenue Sunday, March 28, to honor the birthday of their daughter, Shirley. About a dozen guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stange of Mayfield Avenue in Dearborn Sunday, March 28, attended a celebration honoring the third birthday of their granddaughter, Cathie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Ault of Shadydale Avenue were guests Sunday evening, March 28, of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cook of Hugo Avenue in Farmington. A celebration was in order honoring the fourth birthday of Kathleen, Cook, granddaughter of both the Aults and the Cooks.

Several ladies from this neighborhood were guests Friday evening at a hotel shower, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laughlin on Lathers Avenue in Livonia honoring Miss Pat Williams of Detroit. Miss Williams' marriage to Dale Tallman is to be an event of April 7. Mr. Tallman is the only son of Mrs. Irene Tallman of Wakenend Avenue, Redford. Until recently, the Tallmans resided on Mayfield Avenue in this community.

Bud and Helen Hamilton of Ellwood, Indiana, were guests last week end of Mrs. Mildred Schult on Shadydale Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Ault of Hubbard Avenue were visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Updige, in Flint during the past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Centers and their three children of Westland Avenue left Saturday, March 24, for a visit with Mrs. Centers' mother, Mrs. Matsky, in Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. Centers will be in Detroit only, but Mrs. Centers and her children will remain for a full week.

Mrs. George Throne of Brentwood Avenue attended a Farm Bureau meeting at Ypsilanti Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Austin Ault of Brentwood Avenue was recently visiting with her sister, Mrs. Norman Ogilvie, in Detroit.

Flower Show Plans Now Under Way

Plans are already well under way for the Farmington Garden Club's Annual Flower Show, to be held September 15. The show will be entitled "A Day in the Country."

A show much different than those held in the past is being planned. It will be staged in the new Williams building on Twelve Mile Road and will include a country store set-up. All proceeds will be used to aid in the financing of a community service building for Farmington. The Garden Club has invited a number of community groups to cooperate with them in providing for such a building.

Chairman of this year's show is Mrs. James Cunningham. She will be assisted by Mrs. Vincent Kirchner.

'Corpus Delicti' Term For Crime, Not For Corpse

(This column is an informational service of the State Bar of Michigan.)

IF YOU'RE LIKE ME — you associate "corpus delicti" with the shapely corpse hidden by the murderer in your favorite detective novel.

I enjoy reading a good murder mystery, and it seems the detective novel often seems a "corpus delicti" to prove a crime was committed. Frequently what he finds is the dead body of a movie star or a diplomat or an international financier stuffed into some out-of-the-way cranny. It took a while, but now I've learned that those two Latin words don't mean anything to do with a corpse at all.

"Corpus delicti" is the legal term for "one of the many ways by which the law protects you from injustice."

In totalitarian countries the police may arrest you on vague charges, toss you in jail, and leave you there. But in the United States the law requires the police authorities to show two very important things before you can even be placed on trial for a crime.

It must be clearly shown (1) that in fact somebody has committed a legally defined crime and (2) that there is good reason to think that you may have been the "somebody" who committed it.

In the language of the law, No. 1 is the "corpus delicti." Item No. 2 is the information or indictment.

Suppose your neighbor greets you at the door some morning and finds the door to his safe blasted from the hinges and the cash box missing. He and the police have a long talk so on to say that there was a burglary. They have the "corpus delicti."

And in spite of the "whodunit" writers, the prosecutor doesn't necessarily have to produce a corpse to prove a murder. Even though he must prove the "corpus delicti," there are other ways.

It doesn't happen often, but courts have convicted men for murder in cases where a body was never found. The proof offered may be a combination of several circumstances such as a discharge from a gun belonging to the accused, blood in his auto, the victim's personal belongings and clothing in his possession, and similar incriminating factors.

Even though the "corpus delicti" isn't a term you use in everyday conversation, you can be thankful it's an important part of our American law.

Garden Seeds Need Treating

There is an easy way to help avoid diseases that may be carried by seeds planted in the home garden this spring.

Treat the seeds before planting to kill any fungi and bacteria, advises Ed Klos, extension plant pathologist at Michigan State University. Put a pinch of Arasan, Phygon or Orthocide 75 seed protectant in the package. Then shake the package to coat all the seeds with the dust and sift the excess dust from the seed through a fine mesh screen.

Klos says do not treat seed that has been treated by the producer. And do not use treated seed for food.

Paul Sutton Seeks Seat In Congress

PAUL SUTTON

Paul Sutton of Royal Oak has formally announced his candidacy for the 1956 Democratic nomination for Congress in the 18th Congressional District, which covers Oakland County.

Sutton was the Democratic standard bearer in 1954, when he lost to incumbent Republican Representative George Dondero by a margin of 3.9 per cent. Sutton received more votes in the county in 1954 than any other Democrat except Governor William Hall.

Sutton, 45, has been active in the Democratic Party since the Presidential campaign of Al Smith. He is a long-time precinct delegate and past chairman of the Royal Oak City Democratic Committee.

Sutton is a fleet sales director for a truck firm and has had a widely diversified professional and business background. He has also been associated at various times in his career with the radio, television, newspaper and motion picture industries here and in California.

Sutton was born in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and was a resident of California prior to his Army service during World War II. After his discharge in 1946, he moved to Michigan. He has lived in Oakland County since 1951.

He is a past commander of an American Legion post and a member of various fraternal organizations. He and his wife, Margaret, a native of Michigan, live at 509 Hawthorne, Royal Oak, with their children, Sharon, 9, and Michael, 8.

Grapefruit sections are easy to prepare if a sharp knife is used. Pare deep enough to remove the white membrane as well as the peel. Take out sections by cutting toward the center of the grapefruit on each side of the dividing membranes. Save all the juice.

Proper Lighting Enhances Beauty

A woman will spend countless hours during the year trying to make herself more attractive. She forgets one of the most effective beauty aids — good balanced lighting.

Specialists assert that poor lighting detract from a woman's beauty, while proper lighting can make even the plainest woman look attractive.

After applying her make-up, a woman often undoes her work by facing her husband or guests under the strong light of a single table or floor lamp which places ugly shadows and lines on her face.

To achieve a warm, soft, and flattering effect, the experts advise, enough lighting fixtures should be properly placed in a room so that the light is diffused and balanced. The most effective combination of wall and ceiling fixtures and portable lamps, so that overall illumination and special localized lighting are achieved.

An easy salad with a fancy look and a sweet-tart flavor can be made of grapefruit sections rolled in honey and then cocooned or choiced nuts. Serve on crisp lettuce.
