

Local Girl Scouts Picked To Attend Senior Roundup

Southern Oakland Girl Scouts, a youth training service made possible by the Torch Drive, will be represented at the Senior Girl Scout Roundup by three troops of eight girls each.

The girls who will make up the three patrols have been named, along with four alternates. The Roundup will be held at the Highland Recreation Area west of Pontiac from Friday, June 29, through Wednesday, July 11.

One of the three patrols, Patrol 36, made up of Farmington, Berkley and Livonia Scouts, is being trained by Mrs. Harry Tuckfield of 24280 Norwood Drive, Southfield Township, assisted by Mrs. Theodora Welch, 2851 Aberdeen, Southfield Township.

Marilyn Martin, 26471 Spring Lake Drive, Farmington, is patrol leader.

Members of the patrol are Suzanne Janisse, 2659 Cummings, Berkley; Dorothy Baldwin, 25335 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington; Jane Boyce, 22823 Warner, Farmington; Georgine Gassman, 2771 Bacon, Berkley; Margo Jean McGlocklin, 20100 Parker, Livonia; Betty Sovia, 3175 Thomas, Berkley; and Nan Williams, 21715 Colliingham, Farmington. Marcia Moorehead, 35045 W. Eight Mile, is an alternate member.

The Roundup delegates were selected from Senior Scouts in each district because of their ability to work with others, an appreciation of differences, a growing acceptance of responsibility for themselves, and a love of company, Scout officials said.

Delegates will be in training from now until the Roundup starts. Each patrol will bring its own camping equipment and pitch and strike their own tents, establish their campsites, and cook their own meals, officials stated.

The eight-girl patrols will be organized into troops of four patrols each, one of the Roundup gets under way. Ten troops will make up a camp of 80 girls. Three camps will form a Section of 960. There will be four sections in the Roundup.

Three big programs will be produced in a large outdoor amphitheater to which the public will be invited. One will be on July 4. Scout officials said the theme of the Roundup will be "America."

BLOODMOBILE PROGRAM CHANGES TO BE DISCUSSED

Modifications in the operation of bloodmobiles will be undertaken, committee chairman, indicated following a recent conference with the Detroit Regional Blood Center.

She stated she will ask for more volunteer registered nurses, practical nurses and nurse's aides as a result of the discussions held at the regional meeting.

As a result of a purchase of automatic thermometer shakers by the Detroit Regional Blood Center, bloodmobile operation will run more smoothly and will make possible a greater service to blood donors, according to Mrs. Blanchard.

In the future, nurse's aides will take on the tasks of temperature taking and pulse count, releasing registered nurses for more lengthy and efficient medical histories.

Mrs. Blanchard reports that more time will now be available to check completely into the medical background of donors, to make it possible to explain the process more thoroughly to donors and to insure a collection of blood that can be used.

The Center explains that volunteers never reject a donor. Medical histories are checked by registered nurses, or if the donor prefers, a deeper explanation as to the donor's inability to give blood will be given by a doctor. More time will now be available for help if the chapter can get more volunteers.

At the regional meeting, the Center explained the use of blood fractions - plasma or the use made of blood after it can no longer be used as whole blood. The Center says that the life of a pint of blood is 21 days. After that time it must be broken down into derivatives.

Among the main derivatives are plasma, used for burns and treatment of shock, fibrinogen used in cases of difficult child birth, and serum albumin in treatment of kidney disorders and burns.

Volunteer Red Cross Workers Discuss Holiday Highway Patrol

Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross is getting ready for the summer holidays.

On April 5 at Lincoln Junior High School in Pontiac members of the American Red Cross chapter's First Aid Instructors' Club met with the Amateur Relay League Operators for a round discussion on the coming Holiday Highway Patrol Program.

Also serving on the panel were Herbert Suraley, Chief of Police for Pontiac, Oakland County Deputy Sheriff Ross Miller and troop leader Milo Thompson of the Michigan State Police Riford Station.

The panel discussed the merits and demerits of the program in the past and the program's future as it is related to saving lives on the highway in cooperation with law enforcement officials.

Ralph S. Forman, chairman of first aid for the chapter, pointed out that "the Holiday Highway Patrol program is a program of volunteers who have no legal responsibility to citizens and receive no pay for spending their holidays patrolling Oakland County, to be available to give first aid in case of accident."

Forman also points out that the program is valuable as a dress rehearsal for first aid and civilian defense teams' activity in time of natural or enemy borne disaster. Speaking for the general first aid program of the chapter, Forman says that the program extends to all but four of the 25 townships in the county. Pontiac township has the greatest participation with 1,444 currently authorized holders of first aid certificates. Royal Oak is second with 1,154. The other townships have from two to 474.

In 13 townships there is some kind of instruction for junior high school students.
