

Now Processing Numerous Pike, Muskie Eggs

Approximately 150,000 muskie eggs and an equal number of northern pike eggs are being processed at Drayton Plains hatchery near Pontiac.

Conservation Department fisheries workers collected the eggs from wild northern muskellunge captured early this month in two western upper peninsula lakes. The eggs were kept at Thompson hatchery near Manistique, until recently.

The northern pike eggs were taken from marshy areas in the central part of the upper peninsula.

But state workers have thus far been stymied in efforts to collect eggs of the Great Lakes musky.

Make Considerable Game Habitat Improvements

Game habitat improvement work in Southern Michigan resulted in food and cover plantings on small plots totaling 1200 acres of state land during the last six months of 1956, according to a recent progress report from the Conservation Department's game division.

The plantings for wildlife were made on 29 state game areas and 18 state parks and recreation areas. The work included establishment of 552 acres of cover crops, mostly in standing corn. Other types of development included construction of 600 brush piles, herbicide treatment of 594 acres of foliage and construction of 48 water impoundments — flooding 158 acres.

Along The Creek In Woodcreek

EMOGENE DAVIS

MA. 6-1407

The Woodcreek Skywatchers' new schedule for Monday, June 10, is as follows: 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Audie Dreyer and Ruth Golla; 12 noon to 3 p.m., Genevieve Shepherd and Agnes Wright; 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., Pearl Dobson and Ethel Nelson.

Three birthdays among the lollipop set were celebrated over the weekend. Heidi Ambrose was one year old on May 20 and Christine was five on Memorial Day. Jack Ambrose took his family out for dinner last Thursday, and on Sunday his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Ambrose, Janet, Linda and Tom came out for ice cream and a cake with five candles for Christine and an extra one for Heidi.

Rain Saturday afternoon moved Bart Tenney's birthday party into the garage, which proved an ideal place for nine active children. A festive air was created with Disney and the most eagerly eyed feature of the table was a tremendous cake decorated with realistic cowboys and seven candles. A record playing with birthday songs provided suitable background music.

Guests included Susie, Zicky and Billy Roder, Mike Dorman, Doug Lam, Bill Seveloff (visiting at the Weaver's) and brother Jim. Each child took home a framed color photograph of the party, a treasured memento. A Hawaiian plant guaranteed to grow for fifty years.

Bart's dad accompanied the birthday group to the theater where they enjoyed a cowboy movie. In the evening friends came out from Pleasant Ridge for dinner and gave Bart his most cherished gift—a wristwatch.

Harry and Virginia Lang, with their children, Terry, Linda, Laurel and Holly, joined old friends for a picnic Thursday at the Harry Lang, Sr. farm near Rochester. The group is made up of high school chums of Harry's who, with their wives and children, get together every Memorial Day for an outing. This year there were 16 adults and 20 odd children present. They made the most of the sunny holidays by devoting the growing picnic table, playing games and visiting.

Jo Thurston's sister, Mrs. Ann Hunt, came up from Garland, Texas, to stay several weeks, following Jo's five day stay at Mt. Carmel Hospital. Mrs. Hunt, who lives in a suburb of Dallas, had the harrowing experience, just before her departure, of witnessing a flash flood. The water rose above the kitchen floor, but aside from that and the uprooting of trees nearby, no immediate damage was done.

Brian McCarthy, whose 12th birthday was May 24, entertained several friends for dinner and the movies last Saturday. His guests were Denny Eymon, Kenny Kreider, Donald Horton and his brother Danny.

Judy Weightman, Ginny Nelson, and Tamar Davis were among the Seniors of Farmington High School who entrained last Wednesday afternoon for their class trip to New York City. They returned home Sunday tired but happy.

All proceeds from the project will be turned over to the Community House Fund. Tickets will be going on sale in the near future. ## Local Woman May Be Seen In "Disneyland, U.S.A."

If you happen to notice a familiar face in the motion picture, "Disneyland, U.S.A.," currently showing at the Civic Theatre in Farmington, don't feel that you were seeing things.

It is very possible that you may have seen a face that you have seen before in this area. Mrs. Kenneth Samples of 33237 Cloverdale Street was at Disneyland at the time that the movie was made and can be seen in one of the scenes in the movie. "There is a point of diminishing returns, beyond which raising the tax rates reduces the tax income by driving property outside the state's borders. The chorus raised in Detroit suggests that the point is approaching in Michigan, if indeed it has not already passed." —Chicago Daily Tribune.
