Margaret Allen, daughter of Elton and Bronson Allen, left by plane Thursday for England, arriving in London the next day.

Margaret, who graduated two weeks ago from Western Michigan College, will spend five weeks at Ash Ridge College, near Oxford, working toward her master's degree. Ash Ridge is a picturesque seat of learning, having formerly been one of the Queen's palaces.

The best bet is that the state, with a $16,000,000 deficit staring it in the face for next year, is going to have a lot of tax wars in the next few years.

WHAT IS MICHIGAN DOING about getting ready for the St. Lawrence Seaway?

There was a study by a special legislative committee last year. It came up with a series of law changes to make it easier for communities to help themselves.

Tenor of the recommendations was that cities and regions should do most of the work, get most of the business, and most of the credit for turning the state into a world trading area.

Some parts of the program were passed and signed into law, those making it easier for cities and regions to set themselves up to operate a port.

But there is still a snag—taxes. So, the legislature ordered another study made this summer of the effect of local property and personal taxes on creation of port areas.

Millions of dollars are involved in the taxes on goods stored in warehouses, the levies which include docks and the use of them by foreign freight-carrying ships.

The governmental changes to be wrought by the seaway will be many.

For instance, one state official urged that the state make certain that a certain number of acres of productive farm land be reserved, indicating that the press of business and industry for space will make food-producing land scarce.

IT FINALLY HAPPENED.
A meeting failed to show up for the speaker.

LT. Gov. Philip A. Hart, much in demand as a speaker on varied subjects, was invited to address a group of furniture industrialists in Grand Rapids.

He arrived, speech in hand. The hall was darkened. A hurried conference by telephone with the people in charge disclosed a slight error, on the part of the organization. The meeting was to be held a week later.

Hart, billed as "one of Michigan's first full-time lieutenant governors," was inconvenienced but undismayed. He returned to make the speech a week later.

later donated for educational purposes. While there, the students will take numerous side trips to interesting spots. After their course is completed they will tour Europe, returning to America by September 1.

Guests for a week at the home of Gail and Dottie Spillman were Gil's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Adamson, who are enroute to their home in Little Rock, Arkansas after attending the graduation of their son, Jim, from Harvard University.

Dale Golla returned early this week from a plane trip to St. Louis, Missouri, where he spent a few days visiting his friend, Donna Wilkins and her family.

Nancy Fisher left last week for South Casco, Maine, where she will spend six weeks as art director at Luther Gulick Camp. On the way Nancy stopped to visit friends in Pennsylvania, New York City and Stamford, Connecticut.

Lou and Clare Levis recently entertained at two steak roasts at their home on Millbrook Road. The first, a week ago Sunday, included a bridge club made up of teachers from Lakes Forest College, Illinois, and McCullough Schools and their husbands. Honor guest was Miss Marion Grier, who was leaving for California where she will be married.

Last Wednesday, their 17 guests included the charter members of the Assistant Principals' Organization of the Detroit Educational Association, as well as Herman Brose, Deputy Superintendent of Schools in Detroit.

Arriving Saturday from Modesto, California, for a two weeks visit at the Lloyd Nelson home was their daughter, Elaine, her husband Pat, and their small son, Chuckie.

Art Thureson returned last Monday from his third Alaskan hunting expedition, after being gone almost a month. Nome and Anchorage were stepping points, with most of the hunting and some fishing done in the Aleutians. Art had a marvelous guide, proof of which is the magnificent Kodiak bear he brought down, measuring some 10 feet 3 inches in height. The bear skin is being cured, and will no doubt grace the Thuresons' game room in the basement.

M. W. Davenport returned from a week's trip to California, just in time to fly his two daughters, Wendy and Linda, to Camp F. Well at Newbury, Vermont, on Sunday. The girls will spend a week at the camp.

J. Hyland came on from Kent Island at Kent, New York about two weeks ago to spend some time with the Davenports.

Last Wednesday D. Davenport entertained members of the equestrian drill team to which he belongs, as well as their husbands and wives, at a picnic supper.

DECORATIVE HARMONY

Accounting for the strong upsurge in use of wood kitchen cabinets in postwar years, one leading interior designer points out that wood kitchens provide "decorative harmony" with wood components in other parts of the home—furniture, flush doors, wall paneling.

SOLVE ANY SPACE PROBLEM
Factory-made wood kitchen cabinets are produced in such a wide range of sizes and styles nowadays that any conceivable space or storage problem in the kitchen can be accommodated by wise selection of units.

Want Adv. In Papers, Not On TV, Report Says

An impressive evaluation of the merits of newspaper advertising as compared with television advertising has been provided by Robert J. McBride, director of Research for the Detroit Free Press. He says: "People watch television because of the entertainment—commercials actually are intruders. A survey by Northwestern University shows that 61 per cent of housewives would prefer TV without commercials."

"At the same time, advertising is an integral part of the newspaper. Readers buy the paper for the ads as much as for the editorial matter. Both men and women readers plan their shopping from the newspaper. The Northwestern survey shows that 92 per cent of the respondents want their newspapers with advertising."

This brings Mr. McBride to his completely logical conclusion: "The advertiser gets the best results when his message is welcomed and desired."

Benjamin Franklin was the first American ambassador to France.
