BEAUTIFUL and sophisticated leading lady, Moya Taormina, proves her versatility by taking the speaking part of both Binkie's mother and his little girl friend, Taffy, in RSL's recording "Binkie, the Forgetful Clown."

Barbara Stelowski
Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stelowski of 28218 Merritt, Garden City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ellen Stelowski, and Alexander DiManno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander DiManno, of Detroit. The bride elect graduated from Bentley High School in 1962 and attended Michigan State University where her major was Child Development and Education. Her fiancé now attends St. Benedict's College, in Atchison, Kansas, where he is a senior. A Jan. 2 wedding date has been set.

Ruth Nagel
Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Nagel of Clinton, Michigan, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Arlene, to William Edward Fitzpatrick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Fitzpatrick Sr., of Livonia. Ruth is employed at the Whitman & Barnes Co. and

What clown! Why, Redford Suburban League's "Binkie, the Forgetful Clown" RSL is publishing another book. This time it's the fun-filled story of Binkie, a scooter-riding circus clown and his side-kick, Taffy, a real cool gal; and it's sure to delight your small-try from 2-12. There's a record that goes along telling the story, and even a clown hat for the young man or lady to wear to get into the circus mood.

Enid Dobbert and Evelyn Kramer, chairman of the project, tell us that "Binkie" is an original story, written by members of Redford Suburban League. The pictures are by Mouse, Inc. The record was arranged by Tony Aquino from Artie Fields Prod., and narrated by Moya Taormina, Howard Egan and Jim Golch, member of the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild.

"Binkie, the Forgetful Clown" is dedicated to "All of God's Special Children," and the proceeds from its sale will go for retarded children, scholarships, and other community interests. The 3-in-1 package makes an ideal gift for your own child or grandchild, or for birthday or Christmas gifts.

"Binkie, the Forgetful Clown" is also available on a franchise basis. If your church or club would be interested in the book as a fund-raising project, or for your own individual orders, call for further information—Enid Dobbert, KE 4-8284.

To Women It May Concern

By MYRA COX
It has been a week of discovery! Ladies, you are no longer housewives, or homemakers—you are now "domestic engineers"—the next time you have to fill out some form asking for your occupation I surely hope you use your new title.
Another important discovery this week—if you or your husband happen to be in a band—bad news. The latest thing via New York, via France is "discotheque" pronounced (dis-co-take) for supper clubs and night spots and what it really means is hi-fi recordings instead of bands. The first to replace its band with "Discotheque" is the Kenwood Lounge on Five Mile Road in Redford Township.

A first for me was viewing Richard Burton's Hamlet. Marvelous acting; however, to me it was not Burton playing the part of the melancholy Dane—but rather Hamlet playing the part of a Welsh wit—namely Burton. It is really the first time I have ever seen the part of Hamlet played with any humor.

A friend, Louise Martin, from Redford Township made a discovery this week, too. People really do count! Like the League of Women Voters are saying, "Your Vote Can Make a Difference"—well, she proved it.

She was busy in her home with her son's radio program tuned out (of her head, not her house) when suddenly the words of a current tune began to drift through loud and clear.

It was called Chug-a-lug—and was sort of a teen-age drinking song. The more she thought about it the more she decided things had gone about as far as they could, should or would where she was concerned.

Armed with the promise of several good buddies about to do the same, she called the Dearborn radio station. At first they weren't too receptive, but—well, several "domestic engineers" calling with the same message convinced them and they promised to hold back this tune.

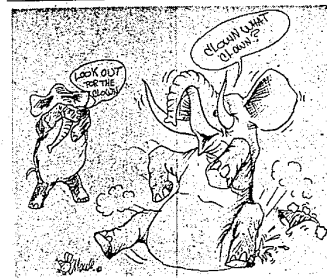

Encouraged, she called popular disc jockey Joe Sebastian, who played this song. He told my friend that teenagers just listened to the tune and the beat, but not the words. She disagreed.

So he agreed he would run a poll on it and try to determine just how much influence the words had on these offensive tunes. If it was as she said—he too would pull from his program the tunes with unwholesome words and suggestive thoughts.

When We really discover our potential influence applied properly I am sure movies, books and tunes will be upgraded, the community will improve the State too—and there is no doubt in my mind we could catapult some one of us right into the White House. Must remember to take that up with Louise next week.

YOUR belt feel a little tight around your waist? It's awkward to sit down in your new chair? It's like a new figure for the holiday? You've said "yes" and lost collectively 147½ lbs. and you can do the same by joining the Farmington Watchers TOPS. The local chapter meets Friday evening at the First Methodist Church, 1738, GR 4-9010 or GR 4-9458. (L-2) VI via Young, 100%; Gloria Bowman, you there!

"NO," IT HAS nothing to do with politics—the above is a "Mouse, Inc." version of the Redford Suburban League children's book, "Binkie, the Forgetful Clown."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gibson

Couple To Live In Annapolis

Barbara Jean Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Allen, Dearborn, became the bride of Richard David Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David P. Gibson, Bloomfield Drive, Livonia. Father Sutherland performed the double-ring ceremony at Sacred Heart Church in Dearborn. A reception for 200 guests followed the nuptials in Lovett Hall, Greenfield Village.

White silk organza over white satin was chosen by the bride for her wedding. Alenon lace trimmed the bodice which was also embroidered with seed pearls. Her illusion veil was attached to a crown of fine seed pearls and was shoulder length.

Matron of honor was Barbara Sowa of Dearborn. Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Stephen Cote of Detroit, Mrs. Guy Allen of Dearborn and Beverly Wood of Roseville. All wore identical street-length gowns of blue and white with tiered skirts and tiny hats to match. All carried bouquets of Rubeus lilies.

Stephen Cote was Richard's groomsman with Kirk Warner, brother of Brighton, Guy Allen, brother of the bride and James Cote, of Birmingham seating the guests.

Barbara graduated from Sacred Heart High School, class of '62 and attended Henry Ford Junior College.

Richard is a Bentley High school graduate and is presently in the U.S. Navy.

Knolls Woman's Club Luncheon

Postponed 'Til Oct. 8

The annual Franklin Knolls Woman's Club Luncheon has been postponed one week, from Oct. 1 to Oct. 8. There is no school on the afternoon of the first and many of the members would have to be home with their children.

In the future, however, all meetings will be held on the first Thursday of every month, as originally scheduled. The luncheon will get under way at 12 a.m. at St. Colman's Social Hall, 32509 Middlebelt Rd., between 14 Mile Rd. and Northwestern Hwy. The price of admission is 75 cents a plate. Those wishing to attend are urged to call Mrs. Jane Lafter, MA-6-2435 for reservations.
