Along Realty Row

When Howard White took a job selling real estate part time, he never imagined that within two months he would have resigned from his regular job and be selling real estate full time, yet that is exactly what happened.

Born in Springfield, Illinois, Howard was brought to Detroit at the age of one month by his parents. Graduating from South Rockwood High School, Howard went into the Ford Motor Co. as a tool and die maker. Seeking to augment his income, he started selling real estate part time. Within two months he found that his liking for people and his willingness to work out their housing problems had paid off and he had more than doubled his earnings. He went into the Neumann Development Co. in 1941 and in 1945 he had opened his own agency on Van Born Rd. in Taylor Township. He enjoyed the long hours and found the work a challenge. He believes that a salesman should be an advisor to his client and not always give him the house he wants, but the house he is best suited to. Many times a client does not actually know what his dollar will buy, real estate-wise, and that is when Howard White believes the dealer should advise him.

His attitudes have paid off because on the 21st of this month he will open a beautiful brand new agency on the corner of Joy Rd. and Oakwood.

He lives with his wife, Wanda, in Nankin Township. He is a member of the Livonia Lions Lodge.

He sells homes in the suburban area and feels that Livonia and Nankin Township have much to offer. The cleanliness, central location, good school system and fair tax structure are all good inducements to future home owners.

The real estate future has a greater future than ever. "Stand outside one of the schools, sometime," says Mr. White, "and look at the vast number of children. All of them are potential home owners. The real-estate business has not even begun to realize its vast potential."

Overwatering is a primary cause of house plant failure, so be sure to water them less frequently during fall and winter, says Michigan State University horticulturists.

Don't Allow Basement To Become A Jungle

For those that have them, basements can often be a jungle of laundry, toys and discarded furniture.

Nobody is kidding anyone about the aesthetic appearance of this hodge-podge since most families find that the jungle never disappears, but merely pops up in a different place in the basement and wherever the need is greatest.

However, a new line of Patio Stone Colors has come along to make the basement a more pleasant enjoyable place.

Known as Waterloo, the new product comes in an assortment of 9 "cheer-up" colors such as Astree Green, Monte Carlo Blue, Espresso Brown, and others with similar appealing names. The stone colors actually penetrate into the pores of the masonry surface and become a part of it.

Thus, they stop basement concrete dusting (dusts on air and clothing) and prevent oil, grease and alkali stains. An unusual advantage of a basement floor so painted is that it may be tiled over at any time without special preparation. To color your masonry floor, the only preparation needed is to apply one coat of Waterloo First Coater as a conditioner. Thirty minutes later, you may apply the first and final coat of any or all of the nine pastel shades. A brush or roller will do the job easily and quickly!

With such a wide variety of shades to choose from, the average woman may be inclined to go all out on a color binger. But let us check your basement color scheme as it stands and choose the most harmonious color to match.

Later on, you'll find many number of places you want to color up. Such places as drains, laundry tubs, basement walls are obvious targets!

Even the garage floor—though outside the province of a woman—may be a logical place to start. The floor of the garage keys will probably applaud the thought once you tell him the news!

Because of the number of deaths that have occurred, car drivers and passengers are again being reminded by the State Police that fresh air from open windows while driving or parked is a "must" protection against the killing carbon monoxide gas contained in car exhaust.

Already this year the gas is reported as the cause of the deaths of at least 35 persons who were sitting in parked cars with windows closed, and engines running. State health department records show that gas claimed the lives of 49 persons in stopped motor vehicles last year in Michigan.

Nine deaths this fall included five members of one family making a roadside stop, a couple watching a drive-in movie, and another couple sitting in a parked car.

State Police point out that the gas can do its lethal work as unsuspectingly because it is odorless and colorless. Drowsiness is one of its first symptoms which may be but is not necessarily followed or accompanied by ill feeling, nausea and vomiting.

Precautions against the hazard are: Having the car's exhaust system inspected for winter driving; properly ventilating the car at all times, whether driving or parked; checking the car's fire wall, passenger compartment and trunk area for rust holes or other leaks through which fumes may seep; not running the car's engine in a closed garage; and finally, by not running the engine when sitting for any length of time in a parked vehicle.

Michigan's 12,000 Christmas tree growers will harvest an estimated three million Christmas trees this year, says Michigan State University forestry specialist. They ship more than 90 percent of the trees in the Nation.

Moving Is Made Easy By Experts

Mobility in American life is not limited to the young folks. Recent studies show that retired persons are well above the national average among those living 1,000 miles from their birthplace.

The growing number of retirement communities in all sections of the country are attracting couples who now have the time and are not afraid to make a fresh start.

Retired couples can make their move to a distinct climate easier and more enjoyable.

Select a moving company and a moving date well in advance of the move to give yourself plenty of time to prepare for it in easy stages.

The first thing to do is to go through your household goods to determine which will go to the move, which will be given to friends and relatives, and which will be thrown out or donated to charity.

Next, prepare a list of services to be discontinued and appliances to be serviced and make such arrangements early. Set aside important papers, jewelry or heirlooms and take them with you on your trip.

To lessen the amount of physical work, it will pay to call on the expert packing and unpacking services of the mover. Make sure the possessions to be moved on the van for the maximum amount.

Make your trip to your new destination a vacation with frequent stops and time out to enjoy the country in between.
