Green Survival

Beautification has been the main reason most people have been planting trees, shrubs and evergreens.

Well, today there is a more important reason for planting them. They have now been proven to help keep air pollution down. They act as a screen pulling the foreign matter out of the air that is so dangerous to our healthful living.

So the next time you see a tree, shrub or evergreen, remember what it is doing for you. Better yet, reach right over to your local nurseryman and let him help you select your own air cleaning machine.
