Rehearsals for Big Musical Held Weekly
Two hundred four pages and lots of sharps and flats is the creative musical material that Robert Zimmerman and his thirty piece orchestra are polishing up each Tuesday evening at the Farmington Junior High School, as they prepare for the May 1 opening of the Farmington High School Broadway musical, "Once Upon A Matress."
Director Zimmerman praised the orchestra members for their interest and progress and stated that the orchestra is progressing nicely week after week. The group has now met for four weeks, and this week for the first time, they rehearsed for a "combination" rehearsal. The orchestra will also play an overture and a prologue.

Orchestra members include such reed players as Sally Schumacher, Jill Jeffers, Larry Lofquist, Karen Virley, and Joanne Bennett. Trumpet players are Bill Harrison, Beattie, Larry Baver and a student from North Farmington, who will be named later. Horn players are John Gordon, Larry Mingo, and a trombone player are Roger Ripps, Lee Perry, and Dan McMillen. John Esser plays the drums in the production. The string section is being recruited by Marie Mowat and will be complete with violins, viola, cello, and string bass. Judy Karls plays the cello. Ray Barry plays the piano book which numbers the two hundred four pages in the completed score. Tickets, most on sale last week with all cast members supplied with both reserved seat and non-reserved seat tickets. Tickets may be purchased also from Welch's Music Store in Farmington.
