Immunizations Alone Not Enough

Immunizations and vaccinations are capable of holding communicable diseases in check but they are not capable of eliminating them completely, according to Dr. P. S. Leeder of communicable disease control for the Michigan Department of Health.

"Diphtheria flared up as the current diphtheria outbreak in Detroit should remind all of us of two vital facts about immunity," Dr. Leeder said. "They are: 'First, the general availability of vaccines and the high level of immunity in Michigan will not protect us personally unless each of us is vaccinated. 'Second, once we become vaccinated we must restore and reinforce our immunity with periodic booster shots. For continuing protection against diphtheria, boosters should be administered every five years.'

Dr. Leeder explained that persons who have little or no immunity against diphtheria are jeopardizing their health and lives because diphtheria can always be brought into Michigan from other states.

In Michigan, Dr. Leeder said, the people most vulnerable to diphtheria are those between the ages of 18 and 35. Persons under 18 usually are still protected by immunizations received in childhood. Persons over 35 probably acquire their immunity by being exposed to the disease during the high incidence era before diphtheria was brought under control in the early 1920's.

"In case you have any doubts about your protection," Dr. Leeder suggested, "see your physician to have your immunity tested, and brought up to date if necessary."

"And while you're in his office," he continued, "you can also get a tetanus booster if you haven't had a tetanus shot in the last five years. The two boosters can be given to you in just one visit. And in the other arm you can receive a polio shot if you need one."

Through December 10, a total of 41 cases of diphtheria have been reported this year to the Michigan Department of Health, including 35 in Detroit, two in Lenawee county, one in Genesee county and two in St. Clair county. During the same period of 1956, Michigan recorded 187 diphtheria cases.

Looking Ahead

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON

With new products which could be profitably marketed. Our Management Screened The constant competitive situation in which American business operates requires the most efficient management. Incompetent management loses out and is replaced or else the company will fail, abolishing the jobs it has created. Under Socialism, management loyalty and political worth are more productive worth. General Zhukov was kicked out of Germany because of personal political defects—not military defects.

To stay abreast competition, reduce prices and raise quality, John F. Queeny had constantly to invest in production tools. The investment in tools at Monsanto today averages at approximately $20.00 per employee. This high investment in machine tools, raises an employee's productivity and earning capacity. The unmatched investment in tools by American industry is a vital factor in our unmatched production of wealth and our record high living standard.

And lastly, freedom to work at the job of one's choice makes for happier, more productive work. Under Socialist planning, the government bureaucracy decides who works where. Our system provides freedom of choice. Man for man, free workers are vastly more productive.

We must remember that these freedoms or productive factors are interrelated. They're in one bundle. We must keep them all intact if we want to enjoy the benefits of freedom and high production.

Farmington High Radio "Ham" Makes Contact With Russia

The call from Russia... comes on Wednesday, December 11, Keith Brumm, a ham radio enthusiast - Junior of F. H. S., made a five minute contact with Kalingrad, Russia. The conversation was in code and simply consisted of an exchange of names, home town, and other vital statistics. The Russian boy seemed to be quite preoccupied with other "hams" and told Keith that he didn't have time to chat. Keith hopes that very contact with Russia will be more successful.

Brumm's history as a ham began three years ago and it takes a command of conversation to communicate over a short wave radio with the many countries of the world. One must have a trust in a receiver among other equipment. Brumm built his own transmitter and purchased the receiver.

On top of this, tests have to be taken. He had to be able to send and receive 13 words a minute in code and pass a 50 question multiple choice test concerning technical.

Production Year Around Business

Christmas tree production, a $50,000,000 industry, is a year around business in Michigan, reports the Conservation Department.

Early last summer, long before most people gave any thought to taking your Christmas tree into your home.

Contracting for Christmas trees and boughs for marketing begins in early summer and most trees are spoken for when cutting time rolls around.

Cutting and hauling gets underway in late October and reaches a peak in early December. Cutters bundle and pile their trees on roadsides where truckers pick them up for delivery to wholesale sale points or to the more than 4,000 retail outlets in the state.

Before cutting operations, of course, trees receive careful attention which provides better quality and longer life of production.

Wild trees make up about half of Michigan's annual production, but plantation - grown trees gain a larger share of the market each year.

Most plantations conduct systematic programs of sprays for protection against insects throughout the growing season. In addition, trees are sheared and shaped to produce desirable form and compactness. Christmas tree grades and standards are increasingly important because the market will take all available trees and purchasers are becoming more and more selective.

Michigan residents use about 1,500,000 Christmas trees annually, of which about a million are grown in the state.

Michigan plantations are major sources for the popular red and white spruce and other species, while some types—such as balsam fir—grow wild in many northern areas of the state.

calities. After accomplishing these feats, the fun finally began. Some of Brumm's most interesting contacts have been the North Pole, Africa, Israel, New Zealand, South America, Australia and England. He has conversed with almost all the nations of the world except China and Japan. Most of his conversations are over the "phone" or verbal; others are in code. Twenty-five per cent of them are with his own age. One fellow in England said that Keith hopes that very contact with Russia will be more successful with the English girls. His own comment was that he guessed he was all right if he could make $5 million.

Good Percentage Of F.H.S. Grads Chose Science

One-third of Farmington's alumni, now engaged in fields of higher education, are pursuing scientific careers.

The breakdown by classes is as follows: From the Class of '55, there are 15 known to be pursuing medicine (including nursing) and engineering. From this total 15 have entered work.

In the Class of '56, the number pursuing higher education totals 40. From this figure 11 have chosen medicine, and 6 have chosen science or engineering.

A look at the Class of '57 finds 63 pursuing advanced studies. From this total 16 have entered medicine or engineering.

In a quick check of the students presently at F.H.S. there is no science to support a belief that Sputnik I and II have affected the course of plans of the student body.

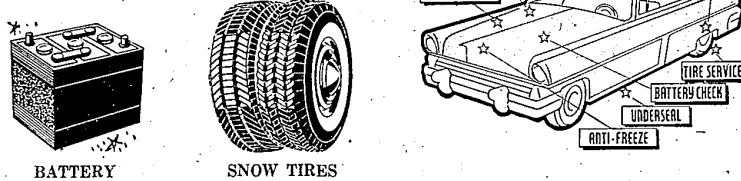

Miss Virginia Carley, guidance counselor, stated that the guidance office has received reports concerning the revision of schedules by students in favor of science courses. However, this fact does not necessarily mean that most students have not reconsidered a change in their careers. It only means that the office has no information to that effect.
