The major areas on the agenda were drawn up by the conference themselves and have included such subjects as locating, hiring, training, compensating and motivating and directing a dealership sales force. Sales managers asked that the agenda include discussion of promotion methods.

Instruction has been under the supervision of Capt. Meyers while Major Dickenson has been busy with a recruiting drive. Most members of the class have now completed the text "Navigation and the Weather" and will soon be starting work with the book "The Problems of Air Power."
