

Iroquois Neighborhood Girl Scouts Active

Iroquois Woods Girl Scout leaders held their neighborhood meeting at the home of Mrs. Cecil Bedson at 26350 High St. recently with Noble and Noble's Hobby Shop, on Eight Mile Rd. was guest and demonstrated crafts that the girls could make for Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Mrs. Richard Schulkins is on the day camping committee for the year 1959-60. Mrs. Schulkins just finished a nature course sponsored by the Detroit Audubon Society. The course showed ways of getting the girls aware of the out-of-doors and ways of using the different things that might be collected.

TROOP 921, under the leadership of Mrs. Pebley and Mrs. Slater from St. Paul's Lutheran School, marched in the United Foundation Torch Drive parade in Farmington on Oct. 10. The girls visited the Lura Doll Garment Factory on Oct. 12. The troop had a cook out on Monday Oct. 19, at Mrs. Robert Dennis' home. Vickie Peterson, chairman of the Detroit Audubon Schmicking will be invited this week.

TROOP 242 under the leadership of Mrs. Dawn Thornton, and Mrs. Hines, made centerpieces using pumpkins for the base and colored leaves and cattails and other fall flowers. Mrs. Dawn Thornton is the Neighborhood Calendar Chairman for Iroquois Woods. Thornton's girls are taking part in the calendar sale and the girls also participated in the U. F. parade. The girls are planning a masquerade Halloween party.

TROOP 1063 visited the Lura Doll Garment Factory on Oct. 16. The troop is making doll dresses from a kit that the girls bought at the factory. The girls had fun picking out new garments that they purchased for their dolls at home.

The troop visited the Senior Encampment at Camp Indian-wood in Lake Orion. The girls were anxious to see what camping is like because they will be able to do some themselves next summer when they fly up to Intermediates. The girls of Troop 1063 used the Hawaiian theme for the U. F. parade, and made Hula skirts and leis.

The first troop meeting of the year was spent singing songs, playing games, and telling the rest of the girls how they spent their summer. Last week the girls of 1063 spent housecleaning their meeting place, and setting up their patrol corners.

BROWNIE TROOP 1066 from William Grace School, under the leadership of Mrs. Hines and Mrs. McDonald, were busy during the summer hiking. The girls liked to Farmington City Park and on the way they did tree identification. The girls also had another hike to the William Grace School. They had a baseball game with the Cubs Scouts, and the Cubs won by a score of 24-10. Their leaders taught them fire building and then they had a corn roast. The girls have been learning some new songs, and a new closing for their meeting. The troop made puppets and put a puppet show on. The girls are now learning pop songs and also songs from foreign countries. (German, French and Scotch). A hot dog roast was held at Mrs. McDonald's and the girls talked about keeping their projects.

BROWNIE TROOP 1065, under the leadership of Mrs. Berkeley and Mrs. Zeit, went to the city mill Oct. 12 with Mrs. Zeit's older being helped by all. Oct. 16 the girls took a trip to Lura Doll Company. They are also going to com-

Top Scholar At Bowdoin

Nicholas G. Spicer of Farmington, a senior at Bowdoin College, was one of sixty-four men honored at the nineteenth annual James Bowdoin Day convocation at the College last week.

Twenty-nine seniors, thirteen juniors, twenty-one sophomores, and one Bowdoin Prep student were designated James Bowdoin Scholars today.

James Bowdoin Day is named in honor of the first patron of the College. It was instituted in 1941 to grant recognition to those undergraduates who distinguished themselves academically.

A graduate of Farmington High School, Spicer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Spicer of c. 24915 Farmington Road.

Importance of AFS Program Emphasized at Region Meeting

Teenagers bubbling with enthusiasm and with stars still in their eyes are according to Mrs. George Romney, creating better understanding among people of the world through the American Field Service exchange student program.

Mrs. Romney was one of the opening speakers at the AFS regional meeting held at the Pick-Fort Shady Hotel, October 24 and 25, during which members of the local Clarenceville Chapter of AFS had the opportunity to listen to and meet Mr. Stephen Galatti, Director General of AFS. They also met representatives from Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, and other parts of Michigan and participated with them in workshop discussions designed to aid each in their particular fields of interest.

These workshop discussions were summarized in the final session where importance of the 2-year language requirement for American students selected to go abroad was stressed.

Relaxing this requirement would not only lower the standards of the program but would be a definite handicap to the AFS representative who would be unequipped to cope with language barriers. In relation to the foreign student living in
