The Rural-Urban meeting of the Women's Committee of the Oakland County Farm Bureau will be held at the West Bloomfield Town Hall, 4100 Orchard Lake Road, on Tuesday, November 3. Members of the Oakland County Farm Bureau will be hosts. A dinner will be served at noon with a regular business meeting following.

Mrs. Ray Warren and children, Haggerty Road, spent the weekend at Osceola with Mr. Warren who is working at the Osceola military air force base there. While there they took a trip to Maclellan City and enjoyed a drive across the Maclellan Bridge.

MRS. ELIZABETH WILLIAMS who has been spending the summer with her brother in Missoula, Montana, has returned to Farmington, to spend the winter months with her son and daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Williams, Halsted Road.

A guest for ten days of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rexin, Drake Road, is Mrs. Rexin's sister, Mrs. Edna Klein, of Oskosh, Wis. Mrs. Klein, who is a nurse, has just returned from a visit with her daughter, Miss Clara Klein, who is a exchange teacher in Germany. While there she enjoyed a tour of the Netherlands, France and a visit with relatives in England. Honoring Roy Howard and Otto Rexin's birthdays, Mrs. Howard entertained at a birthday dinner on Friday evening. Other guests besides the Rexins were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Williams and Mrs. Elizabeth Williams.

Mrs. Grace Butts, 12 Mile Road, spent a few days last week with her son and family, the Robert Butts of Lansing. This week she is a guest of her brother Smith at his cottage on Wagon Lake.

Kendallarks Look Back On Active Two Years

The Kendallarks three-part chorus, consisting of mothers and housewives, was formed through the Newcomers' Interest Groups in Kendallville in September, 1937, a special meeting for all enthusiasts was held at the home of Mrs. W. N. Darr.

When so many responded and blended so well in using songs of old familiar tunes, they immediately set out to engage a director. Ed. Ellegood, Director of the O. E. Duckel Junior High Choral Department was selected. It has been through his earnest efforts, understanding and cooperation that the group has gained its recognition in the community. It was later the consensus to extend membership to all parts of Farmington and thus the group became the Farmington Women's Choral Group. It was also agreed to maintain the name of Kendallarks denoting origin.

The ladies meet twice a month in the different members' homes to satisfy both their desire to blend in beautiful music and to enjoy a social evening.

For the past two years the "Kendallarks" have performed for many benefits, PTA's and social clubs in Farmington, and have accepted engagements in Royal Oak, Redford and Detroit.

As an added attraction, the group has a "variety acts" committee whose purpose is to interest talented members in variety-type acts which are often called for by various social clubs. These acts are first performed and perfected for the husbands as critics, at a semi-annual (Christmas and Spring) party.

It has been rewarding for the Kendallarks to know they have been so warmly and graciously accepted in the community, an official spokesman of the group stated.

The latest public appearance made by Kendallarks was on Wednesday, Oct. 28, when they were a part of the program for the annual benefit. Fashion Show sponsored by the Farmington Evening Newcomers Group.

Proceeds from the show were turned over to the Farmington Public Library.

Tunes sung by the group were: "Love Walked In" by George Gershwin and "Where Oh Where" Mrs. E. A. Savely. Ed. Ellegood's substitution was featured as soloist in "If I Could Tell You."

Delta Zeta Alums Meet
Local history will come alive for Delta Zeta sorority alumnae group II when they meet Tuesday evening, November 3, at the home of their Chairman, Mrs. Albert T. Olson, 6733 Willys.

Native folklore and fact will be learned from Bert Wood, as he recalls the vivid memories of the past about the surrounding area, where he has lived for the past 35 years. Wood is the author of the book, "Franklin Yesterday." He now resides in Franklin.

Delta Zeta alumnae group I will have a noon luncheon and shower Wednesday, November 4, at the home of Mrs. Russell M. Richardson, 1337 Chesterfield. Mrs. Forbes Haswell will be the co-hostess.

Timely Tips on

GARDENING

By Betty Frankel

Mounds of orange pumpkins, destined for grinning jack-o-lanterns and spicy pies, are a sight to behold in the autumn scene. They add a splash of color to the landscape. The foliage in the Fall is brilliant in shades of yellow, orange, red, and brown. The foliage in the Fall is brilliant in shades of yellow, orange, red, and brown. DESIRABLE TREES—One by one, or in small groups, trees are being planted in the landscape. The trees are being planted in the landscape. The trees are being planted in the landscape. The trees are being planted in the landscape. The trees are being planted in the landscape.

REMEMBERS—Put labels in the garden to mark the site of perennials, especially those that are late in coming up in the Spring. Make and burn dried foliage, but put the rest on the compost pile. Finish planting bulbs.

Most new homes are low and do not need huge trees. There are many small, interesting trees that are in better proportion to present-day homes. They will provide an adequate amount of shade and enhance the beauty of the property.

The pink silk tree, albizia, is rarely seen but is hardy and easy to grow, and is fast growing. It has delicate, fern-like foliage and in summer bears pink flowers. Carolina silver-bell, halesia, is another lovely small tree that is hardy and rarely seen. Laborer or golden chain, and Robinia are both small ornamental trees with attractive clusters of sweet-pea-like flowers.

More frequently seen are the flowering crabs. They are an excellent choice for the small property since they are in scale and are especially decorative both Spring and Fall. Hawthorns and flowering peach are also good choices, and pear trees are also small and attractive. Recently, flowering, ornamental pear trees have been introduced.

There are several varieties of magnolias that are hardy in the north. The white star magnolia, which blooms several weeks before the pink saucer magnolia, is lovely.

For the slightly larger property, or where a bit of lift from seed pods is not objectionable, there is a wide selection of interesting trees. Osage, orange, Kentucky coffee tree, locust, mulberry, and persimmon are easily grown. Other good trees for medium sized yards and gardens include mountain ash, ginkgo, and rapid growing Chinese elm. Malvaceae, clematis, oaks, and sycamores should be reserved for large properties.

Nut trees can also be used to good advantage as shade trees. Walnuts become large trees, as do the hickories, but Chinese chestnut is a small tree, and filberts are shrubby.

With so many varieties to choose from there is no need to settle for a tree that at maturity is not the proper size, and there is no need to settle for something that does not add beauty and interest to the garden.
