The February term of the circuit court is in session this week.

Carl and Albert Tatzka of Detroit spent Friday with their sister, Mrs. Wm. H. Adams, and family.

The ground hog had a most beautiful day in which to take a peep at his shadow and now will forego another outing for six long weeks.

A campaign of enlightenment on the good road proposition should be waged in Oakland county. The question must be understood to be appreciated.

"Good roads will increase the taxes," says a good old farmer. Very likely it may. Every good thing costs something, but no many things are worth so many times their cost as good roads.

Daniel Rogers, a well known and prosperous farmer, died at his home southwest of this, village last Saturday. The funeral was held Tuesday and interment was made in Yerkes cemetery.

The good roads movement, in Michigan is gaining ground steadily and rapidly and a prominent feature of this growth is that those counties which have started the plan are the ones that are doing the most, and the more they do the more enthusiastic they are for good roads.

Miss Grace Sloan, who has been very ill with gripe, was able to return to her school work yesterday. Mrs. E. R. Finch substituted as teacher of the intermediate room during her absence. Miss Clara Sloan, who was here to care for her sister, returned to her home in Northville Tuesday.

The ice question has been solved and it is no longer a question. During the past week everybody who uses ice has been secured. The ice is of good quality also. The pond at Clarenceville has furnished the second crop for this season and is good for several more apparently.

There is a demand for small farms and acreage near Farmington also for houses with large lots or an acre or two of ground. People from the cities are seeking homes that can be made to assist in producing a living for the family as well as housing the members. A concerted effort on the part of the people of Farmington to supply the needs in this direction would add many hundreds to the population of the village and its vicinity.

Next week Friday, the 14th, the firemen are going to have a ball in their hall with a supper.

Governor Warner was one of the speakers at a "home" luncheon of business men in Pontiac Wednesday.

Mrs. W. H. Walters entertained Mr. and Mrs. Schaepfer and children, also Mrs. Coburn and baby, on Sunday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Farmington Guild, will be held at the home of Dr. Horner on Monday evening next. Do not forget to bring five cents for the piano fund.

North Farmington

Miss Hattie Rogers of Pontiac, J. Laurenceville of Detroit, Robt. Jotwig of Oxford, Wm. Pagel of Farmington were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Anglin and family.

The Otery Arbor of Gleaners will give an oyster supper at Henry Kyle's, Friday night, Feb. 14, the proceeds to go toward erecting a hall. Further notice in next week's issue.

T. Lytle's horse ran away from the cheese factory last Sunday morning, throwing him from the wagon and hurting him quite badly. Tom's many friends hope to soon see him out again.

Mrs. Wm. Anglin was at the parental home caring for her parents last Tuesday, while Mrs. Roche was shopping in Pontiac.

Mrs. Archie Cairns was a caller at Henry Kyle's and Mrs. George Heliker's last Monday.

Don't forget the oyster supper at Henry Kyle's next week Friday night.

FOR RESCUE FROM THE BORE

Society for That Purpose Flourished Exceedingly in Paris Under the Second Empire.

Under the second empire bores were so rampant that a sort of society or club was formed to fight them under the name of the "Recht des Capitais." It was a mutual aid society, every member of which was bound to come to the rescue of any one in the clutches of a baiting-holding bore.

The signal of distress was given by unobtrusively scratching the side of one's nose, and a colleague on seeing this was expected to intervene and deliver his friend from captivity.

"The society was so useful and so popular, even humanitarian, it may be said, that it flourished exceedingly for many years and grew rich in members and subscriptions."

Among the members was the veteran journalist, Ernest Blum, who, however, was rather clumsy at his work. He used to relate the following story:

"One day in passing the Gymnase saw two men talking. I knew one of them and took off my hat to him, whereupon he at once scratched his nose."

"Of course thought he was a member of the club in distress whom I ought to deliver, so approached, and not knowing exactly what to say, cried out:

"My dear X, I am delighted to meet you! I have an important piece of news to tell you. Allow me" turning to the other man. "Certainly," replied this gentleman.

"I took my comrade aside, saying: 'You know I have nothing at all to tell you.' I had only wanted to rescue you—that is all. 'Rescue me from what?'

"Why, from the bore!" "What more?" "The man you were talking to, naturally." "But he is my father!"

Poor Blum had chanced upon somebody who was not a member of the society and who had merely scratched his nose absently or because he wanted to—which may happen to any man.—Les Annales

W. S. Skelton, a merchant at Stanley, Ind., says he would not take $100.00 for the relief a single box of Foley Kidney Pills gave him. "I had a severe attack of kidney trouble with sharp pains through my back and could hardly straighten up. A single box of Foley Kidney Pills entirely relieved me." Sold by T. H. McGee.

WEDDING GOWNS OF BEAUTY

Brides of the Winter and Their Attendants Have Been Most Charmingly Attired.

Winter brides have been, if possible, excelling those of the earlier season in the beauty of their wedding gowns and the daintiness of the processions. A recent bride chose for her bridesmaids tudor gowns in brocade that could have stood alone, Elizabethan collars and small gold caps which proved most daintily becoming. Another bride wore her heavy lace veil Madelon fashion, with the finest of tulle falling over the face. As she walked up the aisle the diamonds and crystals with which her gown was embroidered caught the light and shimmered most poetically. Quantities of lovely old lace draped her silver brocade train.

Here again the bridesmaids had selected a decorative period for their Pompadour pannier gowns of old rose and chine blue. With these they wore large black hats and carried bouquets of pink roses. Shepherdess dresses were worn by another set of bridesmaids, who carried crooks on which bunches of flowers were tied with colored satin ribbons. The shepherdess hats were among the prettiest that have been seen for many months. Let us hope they may lead the fashion away from the extraordinary headgear that has been adopted of late, crumbed, and untidy looking in many cases.

No one annoys willingly and if people with coughs, colds, whoasens and tickling in throat would use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound they could quickly cure their coughs and colds and avoid this annoyance.
