

We Can Give Thanks

Most of us are inclined to think of Thanks Most of us are inclined to think of Thanks-giving as the time when we give thanks for the personal things which have affected us. We are grateful for continued good health, for that little raise in pay we got during the year, for the fine way the lawn responded to our work last summer — things like that. We'll guess that the original intent included all those purely personal but somewhat trivial things also.

With a little thought we can come up with others on a slightly higher scale — like continu-ing peace in the world, etc.

To those of us who live in one community. who take an interest in that community and how it affects us and our neighbors, and the progress it has; made in the past year — we'd say that comes closest to the original concepts of Thanksgiving.

It's Thanksgiving . . . a time to gather together with friends and loved ones . . . to go with our families to church, there to join our neighbors in giving thanks . . . gratefully, prayerfully . . for all our many blessings. May the great joys of Thanksgiving be yours. We'll be closed, of course, so all of us can enjoy the holiday.

As you grow busier during the holidays, remember the convenience of cating in our dining room.
