In the olden days in Japan the embalmers were agreessful in secur-ing an accellent state of preserva-tion in the bodies on which they operated. The Japan Chronicle rently drew attention to a case of nature which came to light some this hardre which came to nght some time ago in Kobe. The operations which are being conducted by the municipality included the removal of numicipality included the removal of some graves of the Aoyame family, situated in the rear of the Anyoji teniple. Two graves were opened, beinging to 30d dainyo who were barriel 200 years ago. The graves configied of stoke cells with large coffine of ortherware. When the space's between the cell wills and the wooden coffins were opened those prevent were an artised to nee the prevint were supprised to see that the bodies were in a state of preser-vation and had all the appearance of war figures. The old Amagasaki lords lay in almost his-like fresh-ness, dressed in the picturesque cos-tume of an earlier day. Several valupersonal belongings were found the graves, including two long swords. women's hair ornam boxes of pocket inkstones, gold family sinala etc.

TRAINING FOR HINDU WOMEN Movement on Foot to Give Them Some Sort of Knowledge of Household Work.

Even in India the idea of the t saity of efficient training for the administrative work incumbent upon the mistress of a household is gain-ing ground. "Till a few years ago," writes the Haharani of Baroda, "the one calling for which woman was supposed to require no training was household inanagement. Knowledge of the subject was presumed to be inborn in her, and she entered cheer-fully on her duties as hourskeeper, without any fixed notion of how to carry out her task, or without possessing even a definite idea of the work in front of her. Men have al-ways had a certain discipline in the special lines they have undertaken Poor woman alone, to whose lot falls or woman alone, to whose lot fail difficult business of organizin household, has, until lately, bee t to "muddle through" withou left withou any instruction, and has, in cons ovence, often suffered harassing failures in her special domestic domain."
