Exchange Club To Play Host

The F.H.S. Exchange Club will play host to American students who have spent the summer abroad and to foreign students attending school in the surrounding areas as part of their "International Brotherhood Week," February 11-16.

Monday through Thursday American students who spent last summer abroad will be speaking to F.H.S. social science, English, and possibly language classes. The students will spend the day at Farmington, speaking to three classes and accompanying an Exchange Club member to three of their classes. The lunches of the students will be bought by the Exchange Club. There will be approximately 28 exchanges coming for the event, averaging seven a day.

Highlighting the week will be the arrival of the foreign students Thursday night. They will be staying with Exchange Club members until Saturday. Each family must pick up its student Thursday evening and take him back home some time Saturday. The Exchange Club has planned a full schedule for the exchanges during their visit, similar to that of last year. It is the Exchange Club's hope that host families will find the weekend a very rewarding one.

Friday, the foreign students will follow much the same pattern as the Americans did earlier in the week. They will speak to two or three classes, depending on how many students come, and spend the rest of the day with the host student. Judy Porter and Leslie Ash, president and vice-president, respectively, of the Exchange Club, have received 30 acceptances so far.

Friday night all will attend the Farmington - Southfield game and the dime dance which follows. Afterward Lynn Murphy is giving a buffet for all the exchange students and their host FHSers at her home. Saturday morning the students will go tubing, followed by dinner at the Farmington Dairy. Afterward the students are on their own. The families then may take the students home, or they may stay depending on the plans made by the family.

Last year the week was a very successful and rewarding one due to the cooperation of all those concerned, students, families, and faculty. It is hoped that this can be repeated this year.

For people who want to make a budget work

Some tell us they have budget trouble because it's so hard to remember every budget item. Others say it's because they never know how they're doing from month to month.

You'll find that you can overcome these obstacles with our "Money Management Guide & Workbook" — now available at any of our 72 offices for $1.25.

This book tells you how to plan for a budget and how to prepare one—although it allows for the fact that no two people could—or should—manage their money exactly alike. It shows you if you're keeping within your budget—and what to do about it if you're not.

Of course, there are the day-by-day record sheets you find in any budget book. But there are many extras, too: charts that keep track of tax data, insurance and your networth. Unlike most budget books, it's so useful so you can insert new pages.

With the "Money Management Guide & Workbook," instead of asking where your money went, you could be telling it where to go. It's another part of our continuing program to help you with family money management.
