To Keep NBD As City's Bank

For the time being at least the City of Farmington will continue to do most of its banking with the Farmington Branch of the National Bank of Detroit rather than shifting accounts to the new Farmington Metropolitan National Bank.

Asked two weeks ago by the Council to make a study with regard to what accounts of the city might be shifted over to the local bank, City Manager John Dinan gave Councilmen a detailed report at the regular Council meeting Monday night.

The manager indicated in his report that there were some 40 different accounts which the city had with National Bank of Detroit and that he felt to shift some of them to a different bank at this time would present some bookkeeping problems. His recommendation was that accounts not be moved now but that the possible moving of some accounts be kept in mind for consideration at a later date.

His feeling was that some business could be given the new bank now, however, and asked that the Council approve the investing of up to $20,000 in savings notes with Farmington Metropolitan National Bank.

Official Council approval on the manager's recommendations was given.

Grant Sign on Right-of-Way

City Council action was taken Monday night approving a request from Bill Root, Chief of Police, to grant a right-of-way to the City of Farmington for the purpose of erecting a commercial sign on public right-of-way adjacent to his building.

Root pointed out in his request that he could not erect the sign he proposes behind his building line since it would be blocked off by other signs on adjacent properties.

In a report to the Council, Manager John Dinan explained that the problem stemmed from the fact that the highway right-of-ways along Grand River Avenue in the city are very irregular. Existing commercial signs which are non-conforming and on right-of-way and signs which are on properties where the right-of-way is different near the Root building present a hazardous situation, the city manager said.

It was pointed out that the sign proposed would be put up well away from existing walks and present no hazard to the public.

Councilman Sandy Brotherton felt that such action would be inconsistent with earlier action regarding signs on right-of-way proposed by two establishments in the Bel-Aire Shopping Center and abstained from voting. The other Councilmen were unanimous in favoring a variance for the sign proposed at Root's.

Respectfully submitted,
FLOYD A. CAIRNS
Farmington Township Clerk

Recreation Decision

Foundation's past financial support of the Farmington Summer Recreation Program would be completely cut off in the next several years.

For the past 3 1/2 years the United Foundation has provided $6,500 to the summer recreation funds of Farmington and Clarenceville, aiding in the establishment of an eight week program in both areas.

Clark said United Foundation was asked to get out of the recreation fund and since the program in both areas is pointed out Farmington was one of the few remaining metropolitan Detroit communities still receiving funds for recreation.

Jan Mangen, director of the Farmington area summer recreation program last year, said this year's program would have to be reduced from eight to six weeks in duration due to the announced reduction in U.F. financial aid. The same curtailment will be felt in the Clarenceville program.

AMONG THE THINGS called for in the proposed PARC program is the creation of a year-round recreation director position, at a $7,000 dollar annual salary. A capital improvement fund of $25,000 and a recreation program budget of $23,250 with a $1,750 program contingency fund.

Chester pointed out that the proposed capital improvement fund would provide needed additions and expansion to existing school playgrounds and aid in the construction of future parks or recreation facilities.

The control over the selection of personnel for the summer expenditure of funds would be under a commission with representatives from the three governing bodies (Township Board, City Council and School Board) and members at-large from the City and Township.

The PARC program would include activities for the entire community ranging from ballet and tap dance lessons to adult square dances and various athletic activities. Activities could be added to the program or dropped as the needs of residents arise.

The members of the Commission feel that the PARC program is realistic and one that is needed for a community of 5,000 with expectations of being expanded to 7,500 within a ten year period. The Commission has maintained such a recreational program can be a very valuable preventive for juvenile delinquency and a strong character building program for the future.

Present facilities and programs are inadequate, they said, and a long-range improvement of recreational facilities and equipment is badly needed to insure a sound recreation program in the future.

Strong Protest

of Grand River and that they felt that if they felt that the closing off of this route would be very detrimental if not disastrous to them businesswise.

HARRY LAPHAM, city manager, said that the city was not in a position to make a decision on the matter until it had been discussed with the Township Board and the School Board.

Both agreed that at least two or three of the owners of property on Grand River would never have agreed to pay a $100 per front foot voluntary special assessment to help finance construction of the big city parking lot to the south of the city and felt that the closing off of this route would be closed off to them.

Tracy Conroy, owner of Conroy's Market on Farmington Road in this quadrant, agreed with Lapham and Clappison. He stated that he could just not see how there could be any assessment on his property if they didn't have an obligation to keep the access route open.

DICK HABICHT, owner of White House Value, also spoke out emphasizing the value of having this access. It is beneficial to merchants on both the north and south side of Grand River and also in the center itself, he said.

Delos Hamlin Gives Keynote Speech Today

Delos Hamlin of Farmington, Chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, was the Keynote Speaker at the National Association of Counties Second Urban County Congress held in Washington this week.

Hamlin, who is serving an unprecedented seventh term as Chairman of the County's governing body, addressed a general assembly of the conference this morning, February 6.

THE KEYNOTE address by Hamlin took the measure of the urban problem, outlined the aims of the Washington conference and listed what objectives and purposes were desired accomplished by the delegates to the three-day meeting.

Hamlin pointed out to the gathering that in order for the county government to assume full responsibility in the growth and development of our urban areas they must be made more effective through the stimulation of home-rule legislation passed by the state government.

OK '62 Walk Assessment Roll

A public hearing on the special assessment roll established for sidewalk construction work completed by the City of Farmington in 1962 was held at the opening of the regular Council meeting Monday night.

While no objections were voiced, Charles McCaffrey of 2170 Farmington Road did raise some questions regarding the engineering details including the size of a drain culvert under his portion of walk put in the thickness of the cement at his drive and the thickness in building the walk around a tree.

At his request, the Council instructed the city manager to have the engineer meet with McCaffrey to discuss the engineering matters he was concerned about.

Truck Matter Still Unsettled

An amendment of present city regulations which will allow smaller trucks to be parked in residentially zoned areas without being housed was introduced by the Council at its regular meeting Monday night but not without considerable discussion and with some questions still pending.

The amendment stipulates that smaller trucks will be permitted outside provided they are parked to the rear of the front house line. Still in question, however, is what the truck size limitations will be.

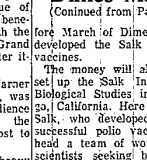

Any trucks over a ton and one half will not be allowed at all even if they are housed. It was proposed that anything between 1 1/2 ton and 1 1/4 ton be required to be housed and that trucks 1 ton or less in size be allowed outside.

It was alleged by one truck owner during discussion on this matter that this would be unfair to panel truck owners. Panel trucks are now made in only the 1 1/2 and one ton sizes, he said, and most of those being used are of the larger size.

His feeling was that panel trucks up to one ton in capacity should be allowed to be parked outside.

The Council asked the city manager to check into the length and widths specifications on some of the smaller sized trucks to see if this factor should have any bearing on the matter of restrictions. He will report back on this at the next Council meeting.
