ALVIRA DALEY 476-2877

Everyone who attended the Hootenany and Street Dance held last Saturday night at the Forest Park area, in the subdivision, had a good time, even though the assemblage was small. Elsie White, wife of the Social Director, Steve White, led the singing, aided and abetted by several teen-agers. Records were played for those who wished to dance. Cider and doughnuts were served, for charge. The party was briefly off to a good start when the rains came and drove every one home.

THE FOREST PARK MIXED Doubles Bowling League had its first contest last Sunday evening at Farmington Lanes and won for averages. The league, composed of fourteen teams, and sanctioned by the A.B.C., will meet every other Sunday at 7 p.m. They intend to provide trophies and a money prize. Norm Kennedy is president of the organization.

Don't forget the Garden-Golf has two important and worth while events coming up this month. The first is the flower bulb, and "penny pot" sale to be held Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m., September 14, in the parking area. The second, the membership drive and flower arrangement contest, will take place, September 18, at 8 p.m. in the meeting room of the First Farmington Savings and Loan in the Plaza. Everyone is invited to attend these affairs with bargains galore at the one and fun and a chance to meet your neighbors at the second.

EMIL AND ELLA Schmidt of S. Brandon, were happy to have their son, Donald, home from California for two weeks. Out of the highlights of his visit was a family party held at his parents' home where forty-five members of the family enjoyed a chicken dinner and dancing. Don's cousin, Jack Stobar, had a swinging party for fifty of the young people. Don also had a chance to do some water skiing and boating. He was happy to see so many of his old friends again.

The last month was a time for traveling for the Maxons of S. Brandon. First, Matt's sister, Jerry, arrived from Boston, Mass. Then they left for Arkansas to spend two weeks with another sister, Mrs. Elaine Burnham, and her family. Fayetteville, Arkansas, was beautiful and they traveled around the rest of the state to see the points of interest. The Burnhams' son had a large sixty-five-pound watermelon for sale shared with the neighbors.

So if you see watermelons growing, you will know why.

Plan Visiting Nurses Annual Fall Tea Here

The Farmington Visiting Nurse Committee met Friday, September 6, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Benson, to hear reports from Mrs. Ann M. V.N.A. supervisor of Oakland County and to plan the annual Fall Tea for former members of the committee and guests.

MRS. MOK stated that 700 visits have been made in the Farmington area during the year. Visiting Nurse service can be arranged by calling Lincoln 2-1200.

Mrs. Myra Habicht is Chairman of the Tea to be held October 4, and she will be assisted by Mrs. Bernice Lecht, and Mrs. Janice Rader.

Wooddale Tea For Parents

During the first two weeks of the school year, Wooddale teachers invite parents to their classrooms for get-acquainted tea.

On these occasions, teachers have the opportunity to explain procedures for the year, familiarize parents with the daily schedule, and answer questions concerning the curriculum.

With an increased understanding of the school's objectives, parents can more effectively work with teachers in sharing their mutual responsibility—that of educating the children entrusted to them.

HAROLD A. LARSON

Begins Local Law Practice

Harold A. Larson announced the opening of his law office at 23700 W. Twelve Mile Rd., in the Kendallwood Professional Center, Farmington Township, on Tuesday, September 3. He is engaged in the general practice of law.

Prior to his locating in this community Mr. Larson practiced in downtown Detroit. A member of the Kendallwood Kiwanis Club, and a graduate of the Wayne State University Law School, Mr. Larson is married and his wife, Janet, is an elementary school teacher.

Elementary School Teachers Hear Social Studies Expert

How can children be helped to develop the skills, knowledge and attitudes which will enable them to be effective citizens in the world of tomorrow, when it cannot be known what the world will be? The Farmington Elementary teachers were given an answer to this and other questions which are in their minds as they begin this school year and a new social studies program.

Dr. Herbert H. Gross, one of the authors of the school system's basic textbook, came to Farmington as a consultant in social studies sponsored by the Follett Publishing Company.

DR. GROSS is exceptionally well qualified to speak to teachers in the area of social studies. He is a geographer of great note, having a high rank in regional, national and international geographic societies. He obtained his Ph.D. in History, his M.S. in Geography, and a Ph.D. in Geography. His graduate degrees were granted by the University of Chicago.

Dr. Gross expressed a point of view which is in agreement with the aims and purposes of social studies in Farmington schools. In a brief review of the historical development of changing emphasis in teaching social studies, from teaching states and isolated facts in history, and memorization of geographic facts with little real purpose to the learner through the era when teachers started pride in teaching not history, not geography, but in teaching the child. Several years ago some brave pioneers started thinking, "Just what are we teaching the child?" and a clear identification of the content was not easily achieved.

IN THE SWING of the pendulum, Dr. Gross stressed that we must keep that which is good from each phase, and that which is reasonable, and teachable from new thoughts, in the field. In his own words, "Don't throw the baby out with the bath water."

Dr. Gross pointed out that by teaching the basic understandings in all of the social sciences, and by helping children to develop insights, see cause and effect, discern these factors

PTA at Ten Mile School Plans Activities for 1963-64

Are you interested in the food and drug laws which govern the food we eat? Would you like to discover how to save money as you shop? Do you have a dark corner at home that you'd like to light in an unusual and attractive way?

These are just a few of the many topics which will be coming up at the Ten Mile P.T.A. meetings this year.

THIS MONDAY evening, Sept. 23, at 8 p.m., a representative from the United States Food and Drug Administration will discuss what to look for on labels of cans, restrictions on canned and packaged food, patent drugs, etc. We'll learn how our families are protected by this administration. Information such as this is vital. Plan to attend.

In the coming months special P.T.A. guests will include popular Marjorie Gibbs, Home Economist, and a representative from The Detroit Edison Company. Cartoon parties for the children, a pancake supper, children's program and a picnic are in store for all those who join in the fun of belonging to the Ten Mile P.T.A.
