LADIES STEP FORWARD

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR STYLIST

BY JEAN

It's The "Dandy"

Autumn and Winter Forecast for Hair Fashions

There is a great change in hair fashions and the key feature of the newly-named "Dandy" hair styles is the small head look.

The day line of the "Dandy" gives the small head a very distinctive look, a smooth top and slightly full sides.

The crown shows a gentle rise with the hair brushed down softly almost covering the ears with soft waves.

The evening line of the "Dandy" converts dramatically into a rising crown of wave curls. The look is, again, the small head, the elegant "little head." Sometimes the hair at the crown is brushed upwards from a closely layered effect with "rhythmic ruffles and folds." Hair length of the "Dandy" depends upon individual needs, and requires professional shaping and permanent waving.

The new cut for the "Dandy" gives fuller, richer texture to the hair ends. Generally hair length ranges from zero to two inches at the nape of the neck, with four to six inches at the high crown area. Length at the temples is from one and a half to four inches. The forehead is for the return of the side part, which has not played an important role in hair fashions for many years. A low side part will be seen as a featured style.

Hair coloring, they point out, must be an individual thing. Any new shades must be becoming to the woman and give her hair a shimmering and iridescent glow to her own color.

The "Dandy" as an overall name for the new fashions was selected as a tribute to the incredibly elegant dandy of the last century. (Did they ever dream they would be in hair fashions?) And "Dandy," as a title, stresses the new elegance in fashion—the "down" line for the day and the "up" line for evening. If you have a professional permanent and professional cut you can achieve this.

SUN on the subject of changes and forecasts, JEAN'S BEAUTY SHOP has recently added MISS MARLYN FRYOR and GLORIA JARVIS, hair stylists, to our staff that we might continue to serve you exclusively with high fashions, efficiently and with satisfaction.

Let us brighten your future with a change of style.
