At Home in Old Homestead

MARY CHECKETTS 474-5705

Haven't the fall colors in the subdivision been beautiful? We're lucky that we have so many trees — we have a color spectacular right in our own back yard.

The monthly meeting of the Homestead Pinochle Club will be held at the home of Bill and Shirley Simmons, 36353 Lyman Road at the corner of Old Homestead, 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 22.

AS SOCIAL Chairman of Old Homestead I'm in an excellent position to shove that old Homestead columnist off to one side for a bit every so often in order to get in some mentions of the social events that are planned for the rest of the year. Get your red pencil out and start marking big red circles around the following dates:

The first circle goes around Hallowe'en on October 31, of course. The Beggar's Bonfire this year will be held at Rick and Jo Boufard's home from 7-9 p.m. Coffee, hot chocolate and doughnuts will be served near a blazing bonfire.

OUR FALL POTLUCK will be held on November 9 at Don and Mariellen Greenbury's home in conjunction with the Thanksgiving holidays. The square dance for the month will be held on November 4 at the Latimer's residence.

We're going to have a real busy month in December. On Friday, Dec. 13, there'll be two parties for the younger set. A hayride for the 6- to 11-year-olds to go caroling through the subdivision will be held right after school, but before it gets dark, with refreshments to be served at Bill and Pat Morgan's afterwards. At 7 p.m., after the younger ones have gone home, the Jr. Highs and High School age kids (12 years old and up) will have a hayride also through the sub caroling, with refreshments and dancing afterwards being offered at Jim and Elizabeth Orvis' home on Quaktown Lane.

On December 21, a Saturday, a third Christmas party for the small fry (2- to 7-year-olds) has been scheduled from 1-4 p.m. at my home with cartoons, milk and cookies and pinatas planned for them.

THEN SOMETIME between Christmas and the New Year, the date is yet to be decided upon, there will be a Holiday Open House which Betty Gazvoda has so graciously volunteered to plan and have at her home on Old Homestead Court.

January we've set aside for collapsing and trying to recuperate from all the December activities.

Friday, February 7, has been already reserved with a deposit for our subdivision's annual dance. Residents of Old Homestead and Pleasant Valley are cordially invited to ask their friends for a pleasant and gaiety - filled evening. We've planned the dance, with a buffet to be served after midnight, to be held at Frontier Town.

BIRTHDAY SPANKINGS were meted out sparingly this past week as only four birthday cakes were lighted up by the youngsters in the neighborhood. On Friday, Oct. 11, the young son of Bob and Marilyn Christie, Curt, blew out three huge candles.

Mary Jo Ross' family and friends surprised her wit ha party Saturday evening, Oct. 12, when she celebrated her 9th birthday.

Two birthday cakes were ablaze on Sunday, Oct. 13, and birthday spanks were sent the ways of Kenny Higgins on his 8th birthday and Cathy Scott of Quakertown Lane who became 6 years old.

A CAMPFIRE Girls troop has been formed recently by Joyce Ross and Yvonne Craig in Old Homestead. Joyce and Yvonne are in the process of taking instructions for troop leadership in the Campires. Any young girls interested in joining the newly formed troop are more than welcome and should contact either Joyce or Yvonne about the time and place of the meetings which should start within the next two weeks. Joyce's phone number is GR. 6-5464 and Yvonne's number is GR. 6-1151.

Elizabeth Orvis really burned up the alleys last Thursday morning while bowling in the woman's league that meets at Bel-Aire Lanes. Bowling over her average she had a 550 series with her highest game being 203.

GENTAN BENTON of Kingston, Ontario, and Pat Moran of Mt. Lebanon, Pa. were the weekend visitors of Joan Pheney on Oct. 4, 5 and 6. Joan and her friends were joined on Saturday by Randy and Pat Crommb from Toronto and all attended a Camp Ak-O-Mak reunion at the home of Matt Mann in Ann Arbor, Michigan. They attended the U of M football game Saturday.

The previous weekend Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Lister, Manistee, visited the John Pheney's and reminisced about their many pleasant times trout fishing together in the northern streams and lakes before returning to their home in northern Michigan.

Fireflies have wings and so do sparks from trash fires. And, according to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, these sparks are about as unpredictable in flight as fireflies. They float along on the slightest breeze, they shoot upward on jet streams of hot air, and often land some distance away in grass, leaves, brush or building corners. Burn outdoor trash in a screened container. Also, wet down areas around the fire and keep a water hose handy.

College Life 100 Years Ago

Making ends meet while away at college was a problem for which a group of students at the University of Michigan a hundred years ago found a simple solution.

In a letter to his sister, dated Oct. 15, 1862, Wilson B. Huston, a medical student at the U-M in 1862-63, described "clubbing." His letter is now in the U-M historical Collections.

"My boarding house is very pleasant. There are six of us, two from Ohio, two from New York, one from this state and myself. We are clubbing. We purchase our own victuals, pay the landlady of the house 30 cents each per week for cooking for us, 50 cents per dozen for washing, besides our room rent.

"MY ROOM MATE and I pay 75 cents per week for room rent. I think we will save at least 50 cents per week by clubbing and live much more comfortably than most boarders do as we always have plenty to eat. As we will all be here six months, each of us will purchase our eatables for one month.

"Ann Arbor is a very nice little city located in a beautiful country. The University brings students here from every direction. It is estimated that the students bring $80,000 here per annum.

"To the University belong 40 acres of land. This is all very level — covered with blue grass — contains fine shrubbery — surrounded by a paling fence. The walks to the different departments are covered with gravel.

"To the left of the chapel, library and museum stands the Law Department, a new building not yet completed but will be the finest building when finished (this was the Haven Hall). The medical department and lab are on the opposite side of the grounds from the literary and law departments. The observatory is near one mile from the other buildings upon an elevated place. I have not yet seen it but design to go out some evening to make some astronomical observations.

"I suppose there is a larger class in this than in any other medical college in the U.S. There are over 200 in this department. All lively fellows.

Hear Authority On Adolescents

"Parents, Peers, Teachers Are Main Concerns to Adolescents" was the topic discussed at the Junior - Senior High P.T.A. meeting, October 15.

Dr. Richard Schmuck, Study Director of Educational Research at the Research Center for Group Dynamics and Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of Michigan, was the speaker.

Dr. Schmuck has written many articles, and done research in the area of group actions and accomplishments. Within the last year he has worked for two weekends with adolescents, observing and discussing with them their attitudes, feelings and motivations.

The talk was followed by a round of questions from a panel of parents and teachers, and by questions collected from the floor.

How Managers Can Improve Discussions

The professional manager can and should improve his methods and skills in conducting group meetings, a noted University of Michigan psychologist says.

Research on group problem-solving indicates that both the methods and the skills of a discussion leader play a key part in determining the quality as well as the acceptance of group decisions, says Prof. Norman R. F. Maier who has for many years studied group decision making.

"IT APPEARS that group discussion not only is a way to develop a sense of responsibility for, and an interest in, the success of decisions, but also can serve as a means for improving the quality of decisions," Maier observes.

"A great deal of potential talent appears to lie dormant in lower levels of management because supervisors are unable to draw upon it. Subordinates would welcome the opportunity to contribute more creative effort and become more emotionally involved in the success of the business. At present, much of their emotional involvement is in the form of frustration and fear."

Writing in his latest book, "Problem - Solving Discussions and Conferences" (McGraw-Hill), Maier points out that research has demonstrated, among other things, the need to distinguish between leadership methods and leadership skills.

"If a leader wishes to follow the authoritarian method, his success will depend not only upon his ability to make high-quality decisions but also upon his ability to persuade and inspire subordinates.

"PEOPLE DIFFER in the degree to which they possess these abilities, and undoubtedly both abilities could be improved through training."

On the other hand, "the group decision method as a way of management creates quite a different situation." Often "the skill of the discussion leader tends to upgrade the quality of the decision, while the method tends to ensure acceptance."

For this reason, a professional manager who favors group decisions must have a knowledge of various methods and sharpen his leadership skills to reach effective group decisions, Maier asserts.

"If one regards management as a profession, the skill requirements are less likely to appear as an unreasonable demand to make of a manager. Once the management of people is regarded as having a scientific basis, problems involving people become a challenge rather than a headache," Maier says.

DE PERE, WISC., JOURNAL-DEMOCRAT: "A special presidential council on the Older American has concluded that the man or woman over 65 has become almost a second-class citizen. He may be hale and healthy, but he can't get insurance except at exorbitant rates, he can't get a job, he can't make his ideas known (except in high professional levels), he is becoming more and more excluded from family councils, he is thrown into institutions and deprived of his liberty on the barest excuses. . .
