DETROIT EDISON

What can you buy for pennies today?

Electric energy is one thing—the cleanest, most versatile form of useful energy. One great advantage is its adaptability. Electric energy is used for lighting, cooking and communication; for heating, cooling and to run computers. It powers motors small enough to run wristwatches, and motors large enough to operate the presses that form auto bodies.

Detroit Edison provides electric energy for pennies per kilowatt-hour. And the more you use, the lower the unit cost becomes. Below, expressed in pennies, are estimated costs of operation of the more commonly used electric appliances.

Constant research, alert management and the dedication of our employees have enabled us to reduce the unit cost of electric energy. For example, when I first became a part of the electric industry in 1922, it took nearly two pounds of coal to generate one kilowatt-hour of energy. Over the intervening years I've seen technological developments reduce this figure to 1.7 pounds—1.5 pounds—1.25 pounds and then a pound. Today, the most efficient of our turbine generators produce a kilowatt-hour of electric energy from three-fourths pound of coal.

Detroit Edison has pioneered in many of the engineering improvements which have led to these and other economies. As a result, the company has not increased its rates for electric service since 1949. Equally important, most of our customers use more electric energy now than they did then, so the average cost per kilowatt-hour is 14 per cent less than it was in 1949.

This is one reason why it's good economy to live electrically. Detroit services, including free or minimum cost electric appliance repairs, are additional reasons. Backing up these services are all the efficient facilities and friendly people that are the company.

Sincerely, Walker L. Cisler
WALKER L. CISLER, PRESIDENT, THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

Urge: No Split On Community College Plan

A trio of lawyers last week urged that Oakland County voters be asked to vote on a community college, tax support for it and a board of trustees as one issue.

Burton R. Shifman told the Community College Citizens Committee (CCCC) that if propositions are submitted separately two years could elapse before a tax could be voted and collected to make a "legal" college a reality.

CHAIRMAN WENDELL Brown of Farmington stressed that the only qualification for membership in the CCCC is interest in the community college issue. Representation is sound from every school district and governmental unit in the proposed community college district.

Eugene Kutty, chairman of the finance section of the CCCC, reviewed a 1962 study indicating a community college could be built and financed by a one-mill tax, student tuition and state aid. However, the board of trustees of the proposed college would have the right to seek voter approval of bonds to build classrooms.

The next meeting of the CCCC is set for 8 p.m., January 6 at the Oakland Schools' office, County Service Center, Pontiac.
