NF Baseball for Boys Program Will Feature Pro Wrestlers

The last in professional wrestling comes to this area Saturday night, April 4, at the North Farmington High School gym. The all-star card, sponsored by North Farmington Baseball for Boys, will feature eight of the nation's top grapplers.

Louie Klein will face Ivan Krimchik, "The Mad Russian," in one of the headline encounters.

Klein, perhaps the most consistent attraction in the history of pro wrestling, has the most complete repertoire of wrestling maneuvers in the business. Known as the "man of a 1001 holds," Klein can match any grapple in sheer skill and purely scientific wrestling.

ALSO APPEARING will be two of the world-famous Mighty Midgets.

These compact bundles of dynamite have toured from Paris to Tokyo with their amazing antics, and the glove over their reception was the same.

The Farmington Enterprise is published every Thursday in the City of Farmington. Second Class Postage Paid at Farmington, Michigan. Address All Subscriptions, Changes of Address, Forms 3579, to Box 435, Farmington, Michigan.

OLS Thinclads Open Season On Monday

The Sorrows trackmen recently began their season, with hopes of a good record this year.

They have been running to get their legs and bodies into shape despite the cold and uncooperative weather.

The Lancers first meet is April 6 with St. Francis Xavier. A few of the trackmen were entered in the Mansfield relay in Ohio. This is one of the big relays and will be composed mostly of Class A schools. Despite this, Sorrows has five men in the meet. Joe Gadsby was entered in both high and low hurdles; Terry Callouette and Bob Allen in the 440; and Sorrows relay team of Dave Hamilton, Rick Kark, Bob Allen, and Terry Callouette.

Sorrows finished the season above average last year. They placed third in the State Relays and third in the Second Divisional City Championships.

The Lancers this year are looking forward to an even better year. They are very strong in the middle distances and just only three men through graduation. Lower classmen show promise and the field course should be improved this year.

Timely Tips on GARDENING By Betty Frankel

Trees make the difference between an old established neighborhood and a brand new raw-looking subdivision. In the older neighborhood, distant trees provide a backdrop and trees in the foreground enhance and accent the landscape to human terms. Where there are no trees the sky seems limitless and a person or home seems very small and exposed.

Trees should be planted where they will do the most good for beauty and comfort. The view of the home from the street is enhanced if trees are planted so that they form a natural frame for the house. Too often homeowners unimaginedly plant a tree in the exact center of a lawn area.

Large shade trees, either in the front or the back yard should be planted so the summer shade falls where it is needed. The shadow position shifts each day as the sun moves from east to west and also shows a seasonal shift from south to north. Plot the shadow pattern before planting a shade tree.

Smaller trees may be used for decorative accents, such as silhouetted against a blank garage or house wall. They may also be clustered in a shrub border surrounding a yard. Also, these smaller trees make good shade trees for small city and suburban yards.

The beautiful smaller trees include dogwood, star magnolia, silverbell, red-bud, hawthorn, flowering cherry, and the many varieties of flowering crabapples.

Among the choicest large trees are sugar maple, norway maple varieties, oaks, sweet gum, white ash, and gingko.

Plant trees as early as possible so roots will have a chance to grow before the leaves come out. Make the planting hole about two feet deep and three feet wider than the roots of earth ball. Set the tree an inch or two deeper than it was in the nursery and fill the extra space with rich top soil or compost. Water thoroughly to remove air pockets and soak again after planting is completed. Leave a saucer-shaped depression around the tree to aid in watering during the first season.

Small trees can generally be transplanted bare-rooted. Large trees should have a ball of earth around the roots. Also, the following trees transplant better with an earth ball: dogwood, magnolia, birch, tulip tree, sassafras, sugar maple, and oaks.

Winter Sports At FHS Provide Fond Memories

Although neither the basketball team nor the wrestling team could muster a 500 record this year, both squads left Farmington fans with many lasting memories.

The Falcons' eagles wound up the season with a rather disappointing 9-12 season, but the Farmington fans were never without excitement at the games. The Birds topped their cross-town rival North Farmington two out of three times. Farmington fans sat on the edge of their seats in the bleachers during the overtime games against Walled Lake and the four-overtime affairs with Waterford.

The biggest victory of the season came early in January when the Falcons upset mighty Pontiac Northern, 67-58. Halfway through the conference schedule, the Falcons rested stop of the Inter-Lakes League. Although they faltered through the rest of the regular season, they never failed to give their fans a good show.

The season came to a climatic close as the Falcons gained stunning victories over North Farmington, a Thurston, and Walled Lake to gain the district championship before bowing out to Mount Clemens in regional play.

Farmington gained quite a reputation in this area for its vicious rowing. The front line of Bob Lorenz, Neil Warner, and Dave Schlaich dominated the boards in most of their games.

The Falcons' scoring was led by Neil Warner with 233 points, Dave Schlaich 211, Bob Lorenz 229, John Olander 209, Roy Leach 133, and Greg Wilson 88.

Coach Jack Quigley's hopes for next year will rest on returning starters John Olander and Roy Leach. Lloyd Nichols, Mike Mastala, Neil Stark, Paul Christensen, Terry Taggart, and Bob Healy will also be returning. Let's hope for more Ron Cleveland along with injured stars, Mike Wilson and Steve Moore should bolster the scoring attack next year.

The F.H.S. grapplers gained only two dual meet wins but were on the verge of victory several times. The highlight of the wrestling campaign was a triumph over North Farmington.

Art Woehler proved to be one of the top wrestlers in the area and was undefeated in dual meet competition. He went on to gain all-conference honors. Artie, Dick Johnston, and Bill Cassell placed well in the regionals and went on to compete in the state finals.

Next year coach Bill Guicardo will have an excellent nucleus to build his squad on. Juniors Art Woehler, Ron Mortenson, Tom Johnson, and Dick Johnston were consistent performers all season and should lead the Falcons to a better season next year.

Many motorists end up in a nightmare because they insist on daydreaming at the wheel. Studies by the Institute for Safe Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company reveal that inattention in one form or another is a hidden factor in many accidents.
