The Montereys Are Climbing Up to Stardom

The Montereys, a rock and roll combo made up of North Farmington High students, and one lad from Oak Park, are moving up in fame.

The group has only been together for about two months now, but they are playing Record Hops like professionals. They feature an instrument not found in any other rock and roll group. It's called the Cordovox, a completely new kind of musical instrument, and it gives the group a different sound from the rest of the rock and roll groups, with its organ versatility sound.

THE COMBO consists of five: Art Fleischer, on Cordovox; Jack Ford, rhythm and lead guitar; Wayne Hurd, rhythm and lead guitar; Jim Gale, tenor saxophone; and Kevin Lambert, drums.

The Montereys, who have already made successful appearances with Den Zee, Disc Jockey with WXYZ Radio Station, will be appearing at the Walled Lake Casino recently.

The manager of the group, Art Fleischer, Sr., is now in the process of arranging more public appearances for the Montereys and will discuss with United Sounds Record Co. about cutting some records, sometime in June.

The Montereys are rehearsed by a professional musician, Pat Pascal, who also writes some of their arrangements. Art Fleischer, Sr., is also a professional musician.
