Center Ladies Softball Team Wins 2 Games

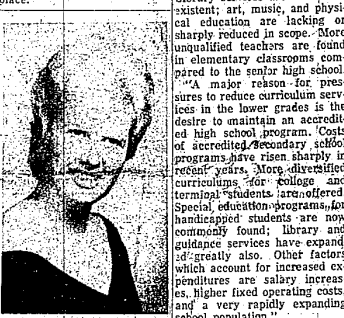

Farmington Center Ladies Softball Team played one of their best games by defeating Clawson, 2-0, July 5. June King again pitched a beautiful game by allowing Clawson only three hits. It was the team's first shut-out of the season.

Farmington Center runs came in the early innings of the game and they were well executed. Mrs. Farmington held Clawson scoreless.

In a see-saw battle, Farmington Center again came on top by defeating Clawson, 2-0, July 12. All through the game Farmington was trailing Clawson City until the fifth inning, when they erupted and the bats were booming with no let up and came up with six runs to take the lead for really the first time.

Garden City again threatened to take the lead in the fifth but a good double play stopped them. Errors accounted for most of the runs for both teams. With the exception of the late game, the people couldn't leave because if they turned their backs something could happen during the game.

The Farmington Center team would like to thank all the people who attend their games. Farmington Center now has a 2-2 record, and is in second place one game out of first place.

Mrs. and Mrs. Kenneth Chappell, Farmington, are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Jean, to Mr. James H. Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Pearson of Howell, Michigan. An October wedding is being planned.

See Fall Hats At N.Y. Show

Mrs. and Mrs. Richard Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Mitchell, longtime residents of Farmington Township, have just returned from a buying-vacation trip to New York City. Dorothy Carpenter and Nancy Mitchell left the millinery store, deLancy Custom Millinery Shop, Ten Mile and Orchard Lake roads, which was recently mentioned in the National Publication, HATS Magazine.

The deLancy owners spent most of their time buying elegant new ribbons, fabrics, leathers and furs available in millinery supplies for their shop; but they also attended the 1964 Fall Millinery Fashion Show at the New York Hilton Hotel. This semi-annual show exhibited the newest designs of such prominent millinery creators as Lilly Dache, John Fredricks, Mr. John "Coley" Victor, etc. who also attended the show.

FARMINGTON AREA women will benefit from this preview of the overall fall millinery picture through these two local designers. They suggest a few tips for fashion conscious women to keep in mind: Fur-trimmed hats and brims are important factors; ear-laps, chin straps; and snoods are new; all autumn greens; from the palest to the deepest black and white and red (from carnation to cranberry) are especially good colors this fall; and feathers and furs are being used lavishly, particularly ostrich and the fake furs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nelson of Walled Lake announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Louise, to Philip D. Peters. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Peters of Detroit. They are planning a November 7 wedding ceremony.

Pressing Need Seen in School Accreditation

Michigan has a "pressing need" to develop a plan which would accredit an entire public school system rather than the senior high schools alone, according to Ray E. Kehoe, associate director of the Michigan Association of School Services.

"We need quality programs for all grades and levels of education," says Kehoe. "It is important that a balance of quality be maintained in the elementary and junior high schools as well as in the senior high school," he says.

KEHOE REPORTS that during recent years, financial crises have necessitated cutbacks in many school systems. "Such cutbacks have come first and heaviest in grade eight and below. In many school systems one finds a higher teacher-pupil ratio in the lower grades. Library services are often nonexistent; art, music, and physical education are lacking or severely reduced in scope. More unqualified teachers are found in elementary classrooms compared to the senior high school.

A major reason for pressures to reduce curriculum services in the lower grades is the desire to maintain an accredited high school. "The new accreditation program," says Kehoe, "has been a very rapidly expanding school population."

In circumstances such as these, the school system, in a period of rising costs, income remains stable and possibly even decreases. Kehoe says. Cutbacks in programs are then necessary and are inevitably made first in the lower grades inasmuch as secondary programs are more costly.

DURING PERIODS of financial crisis it seems equitable to reduce programs at all levels and to strive to maintain a reasonable balance in the total school program, he declares. School boards should give up accreditation if it must be maintained at the expense of a quality program for one segment in the school system.

"A more responsible approach to the problem of maintaining proper balance of curriculum and opportunities in the school system would be to establish adequate qualitative standards for the system as a whole," Kehoe concludes. "Evaluation of the entire system by accreditation authorities ought to help in reducing or eliminating favoritism of one program within a system at the expense of another."
