Enterprise Offers Total Coverage of Farmington

This special section of The Farmington Enterprise is another innovation in the Enterprise management's ever continuing effort to satisfy the needs and wants of the increasing number of business establishments and citizens of Farmington.

Following study and research over a long period of time, we have determined that enough interest and advertising support has been expressed in Farmington to warrant distribution of a total coverage newspaper section into ever home in Farmington City and Township.

Even though The Enterprise maintains an exceptional high percentage of paid sub-scribers for a suburban Detroit community (over 65%) both display and classified adver-tisers in increasing numbers have been requesting total coverage of Farmington.

This section, which is being included as a part of the regular newspaper to very paid subscriber, will also be distributed by mail to the remaining number of homes in Farming-ton City and Township.

The total distribution of this special section runs over 12,000, The deadline for placing either display or classified advertising in this special total distribution section is NOON SATURDAY. The rate for this special section is only a small percentage higher than for the regular paid subscription portion of the news-

For details on placing display advertising in this special section call Donald Stewart, advertising manager, or Winona Woods, gen-eral manager. For information on classified advertising to go in this special total coverage section call Jean Beck.
