New 'Speakers' Graduated

Thirty Farmington area residents are gathering tonight at the Boford Inn to celebrate their last session of the Dale Carnegie Course in Human Relations and Effective Speaking. The class, which started its meetings on Oct. 28, has been meeting each Wednesday at the First Farmington Savings Community Room.

During the final dinner gathering tonight, members will display their new-found speaking talents by giving a two-minute speech. Also in attendance will be the resident instructor, Willis Holmgren, and regional director, Bill Pieuch. "This has been an outstanding group," commented Pieuch. "More than just speaking ability... this group has done what many thousands of others have done before them... they have conquered fear and gained additional self-confidence and increased their abilities to lead and get along better with people. This group has been real close throughout the 14 weeks. Almost like a family."

Mr. Pieuch announced that a new Farmington-Livonia class was being formed with the pre-view meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 8 p.m. This pre-view meeting and the succeeding 14 sessions will be held at the First Farmington Savings Community Room located at Orchard Lake near Grand River. Applications are now being accepted for the new group by calling UN 4-5351 or enrolling at the pre-view meeting.
