

New Duo's Top Pin Meet: 1 Week to Go

With one week remaining in the third annual Observer Newspaper-Merri-Bowl Lanes mixed doubles bowling tournament, bowlers will be firing at a 1385 score for the top prize which is expected to go as high as $2,500 if entries continue to pour in as they did last week.

That was the announcement of Tournament Manager Mac

Goldman after a sensational weekend that saw new teams in the top two places as more than 200 duos competed.

The tourney has a guaranteed first prize of $1,000, with $500 for second and $350 for third. However, Goldman and tournament officials indicated the prize list would be boosted to $2,500 for first, $1,250 for second and $750 for third if the entry total hit 1,000 or more.

We have every reason to believe the entries will go past the 1,000 total in the final weekend," said Goldman Monday. "We are with in striking distance right now but the tournament committee doesn't feel it should announce the higher prize list until we actually reach 1,000 entries.

"We anticipate full squads for the final two sessions on Saturday and Sunday, May 22 and 23--then we'll settle down to the task of rechecking the scores and the entry list before striking distance, whether the prizes will be those guaranteed or the higher amounts based on the 1,000 entries."

The long awaited bombardment on the lanes, and the score of 1319 rolled by the Detroit pair of Mildred Sherman and James Thomas on the second weekend, took place last Saturday and Sunday with the result that the Sherman-Thomas team is now third in the standings.

It took a redhot duo from Garden City to end the scoring drought and Ellice and Morris Fackler, of 30515 Sheridan, did it with a vengeance. With Morris, a counter man at Salsville Lanes on Michigan Ave., blasting the pins for a big 672 actual count, the Facklers combined for a 1385.

It was a good thing they had that much of an edge for Helen Shables, bowling instructor at Merri-Bowl, joined with Tom Mrakitsch Sunday evening for a big 1346 that would have been good enough to win the two previous tournaments.

Mrs. Shables, long rated one of the city's and the nation's leading bowlers, not only sent her team into second place but she rolled the highest single game of the tournament in her opening line with a big 278.

It was one of the best performances by a bowler—male or female—at Merri-Bowl all season. She started with 10 strikes, picked up a spare and then had eight strikes in a row before closing out with nine pins on her final ball.

She came right back with 214 and then dropped to 155 in her third game for a 687 total. She has a 150 average in the area's top women's leagues.

Meanwhile, her partner, who resides at 14877 Azme in East Park, bettered his 177 average in all three of his games, scoring 131, 138 and 152 for a 569. The duo picked up 90 pins handicap for the 1346 score.

Fackler, who has a 170 average, had a hot streak from his opening ball. He counted 224 in the opener, 211 in the middle and 237 in the finale for 672.

Ellice, who entered with a 146 average, started with a 153, found the lanes for 203 and then dropped to 180 in the third game for a 542. They picked up 174 pins handicap for the overall total of 1385.

But tournament followers were still talking about the brilliant performances of Mrs. Shables who had 10 strikes in the first game, five each in the second and third. She bowled earlier with another partner and totaled 692 on games of 161, 207 and 234.

Tournament action will resume at 11 a.m. on Saturday when squads take the lanes on hourly schedules in their bid to overtake the leaders. Then firing ends Sunday with squads from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. after which the unofficial winners will be announced and the official prize list.

G.O.I. emphasizes that there are still choice times left on the final two days but urges all teams interested to make the fact known now so that they can fit it into the weekend schedule.

People who have no definite aim in their life's work are actually lost before they start.

Livonian Eyes At-Large Post

Hudson Has Competition for Schoolcraft Board

Two contests for positions on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees will be held this weekend in five filed for the weekend in Livonia and two names were dropped into the hopper as candidates for the at-large post.

Sam Hudson, prominent Plymouthite who resides at 44351 N. Territorial, faces the challenge of Mrs. Rosier Raymond, 15906 Oak Drive, for the at-large post. Hudson is the incumbent, serving as an appointment to fill the vacancy created when Charles Kirkpatrick resigned when transferred out of the college district.

Mrs. Raymond has been a leader in numerous activities in Livonia, particularly in arranging participation in the annual St. Patrick's Day parade in downtown Detroit. She is one of the leaders in the area Irish organizations.

The five candidates for the Livonia post, vacated when Ervin Brown did not seek reelection because of the press of business, are: Donald Kilpela, 8155 Donna, Garden City; Oliver Welpert, 20149 Mason; James Brownell, 8510 Deering; Ronald Plienzo, 16533 Farmington Road, and Solomon Bienenfeld, 29623 Transcend.

Kilpela is eligible to run for the Livonia position since his residence is in the Livonia School district.

Auto Title Record Is Shattered

LANSING—April, 1965, will go down in Michigan's auto registration history as the "greatest record-breaking month ever recorded."

The "astounding" number of 238,000 titles for Michigan vehicles were issued during the month, eclipsing the previous high month of May, 1963, by nearly 30,000 titles.

"It wasn't that the record was broken," Secretary of State James M. Hare said, "but the overwhelming way that it happened." Hare said that if car sales kept with current highs the remainder of the year that last year's all-time record of more than two-million titles issued would also be shattered.

Hare did say that so far through April, 1965, figures were running "just a trifle under 1964's totals."

April's 63,000 titles for new cars and 124,000 transfers are all-time marks also, Hare said.

MISS HELEN BOWIE (right) helps Marion Knudsen with a knitting problem. Miss Bowie conducts a class at Crowley's Livonia Mall Store each Tuesday teaching people "ins and outs" of knitting.

Hospitals Mark National Week

National Hospital Week, which is annually sponsored by the American Hospital Association, was observed May 10 through 15. Area hospitals marked the week in a variety of ways.

At the Garden City Hospital, the administration honored each of the employees. Various departments and groups were singled out on each one of the days and honored at a luncheon.

The Redford Community Hospital opened its doors to various Future Nurses groups, Scout groups and the families of hospital employees for a tour of the facilities and an explanation of the services offered.

On May 12, Future Nurses from North Farmington High School and Bentley High School in Livonia heard a round table discussion between the girls and the hospital Director of Nurses, Mrs. John Wick, R.N., M.S., which explained the two types of nursing programs and answered the girls' questions.

On May 13 future nurses from Farmington High School and Franklin High School in Livonia attended; and on Friday, May

Knitting Made Easy In Crowley's Classes

Miss Helen Bowie learned to knit many years ago and wishes she could teach a five-year-old school girl in Scotland. She obviously enjoys it and enjoys helping others to learn to knit.

Every Tuesday she comes to the Crowley's Store at the Livonia Mall to assist any person who wants help.

The only stipulation for the service is that the knitting materials be purchased at Crowley's.

It is an informal kind of class, Miss Bowie sits at a table and anyone who wishes sits down and waits their turn. No formal appointments are made and it's on a first come first serve basis.

Not only beginners attend the sessions. Often times, Miss Bowie says, people who are reasonably proficient will return for help because "knitting just like everything else is changing. There are new stitches and new yarns and they sometimes pose a problem for the person who has been knitting."

Many of the beginners, however, want to make something right away as that is "more interesting" they feel. The learners make everything from dresses and coats to afghans.

It's interesting to see the knitting session and every Tuesday from 10 a.m. to about 4 p.m. it's held on the second floor of Crowley's Livonia Mall Store.

Those attending were: Bentley High: Sharon Agee, Pat Crandall, Edith Deludas, Jean Douthett, Sandra Evans, Kathy Hoops, Sandy Klipper, Josely Mann, Diane McClude, Karen Noblet, Sue Reynolds, Karen Sims, Elaine Stuart, Wendy Swanger.

North Farmington: Sharon Seja, Linda A. Burder, Gailyn DeWalt, Nan Brown, Stephanie Fleming, Sherry Douchette, Kathy Devilla, Laurie Linn.

Farmington High School: Dora Johnson, Karen Johnson, Alice Niven, Linda Lykins, Jeannette Terrill and Elizabeth Senob; from Franklin High School: Sandra Cooper, Jeannette Jones and Gwendolyn Braggard; Our Lady of Sorrows High School: Mary Bahra, Nancy Kolbasa, Kristin Kiley, Joyce Butman, Diane Buegel, Mary Buegel and Corazon Romero.

Clareville High School: Susan Randall, Susan Decent, Sheryl Gorman, Laura Buegel, Bonnie Vickstrom, Phyllis Dittman, Darlene Jarackas, Denise Sadowski, Betty Joy Floyd.

No observances were held at St. Mary's and the Ardmore Acres Hospitals in Livonia.

Dr. Loving Is Speaker at Franklin

Dr. Alvin D. Loving, Professor of Education, University of Michigan, has accepted an invitation to address the Class of 1965 at the Commencement Exercises at Franklin High School's Second Annual Commencement program, June 17.

Dr. Loving has been associated with the University of Michigan since 1956. In 1962 he was promoted to the rank of full professor, the first Negro to achieve that status in the 148-year history of that institution.

Prior to joining the staff of the Michigan University, Dr. Loving had been a Fulbright Professor with the Indian Ministry of Education and the United States Educational Foundation of India for the year 1955-56.

His teaching career began in Detroit, where he served for 18 years at a high school class room teacher and counselor. After four years as principal of an elementary school in River Rouge, Dr. Loving entered the college teaching, in which he gained experience at Western Michigan University, Wayne State University and the University of Oklahoma. His entire elementary and secondary school training was in Detroit schools.

On leave from the University of Michigan between 1960-1962, Dr. Loving served as the first Dean of Students for the new University of Nigeria. During his two-year stay there as a member of the Michigan State University Afro-Cuban Team, his main task was to develop the Office of Student Affairs, the first in any university in the British Commonwealth.

Azala on leave in 1963-1964, he became Executive Director of the Mayor's Committee on Community Action for Detroit Youth. The program designed by his staff was used by Detroit's Total Action Against Poverty, the first program to receive Federal funds under the Equal Opportunity Act.

Dr. Loving has received numerous awards and honors. In 1963 he was recipient of the Dedication Award, United Committee of Negro History, the Michigan Chronicle Citizen of the Year Award, and the Detroit Emancipation Centennial Authority Achievement Award in the Field of Education.

In 1964 he received a Distinguished Alumni Award at Wayne State University, a Booker T. Washington Business Association Achievement Award, the R. G. Dun Achievement Award, and an honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities from Western Michigan University.

Dr. Loving has co-authored one education book, has co-edited another, and has written a number of educational articles for professional publication.

Are You a Good Driver? Try Test on TV Monday

LANSING—You can find out if you're good at driving you're just in your living room. Sound impossible? Not at all if you watch when CBS News presents the National Drivers Test on Monday, May 24.

This unique telecast... aside from providing helpful tips to drivers... allows every driver in a family to take a driver test in his home. Test blanks are being distributed by various methods throughout Michigan according to Secretary of State James M. Hare, chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission. Hare said that the Michigan safety commission, composed of state officials, and organized safety groups had "given unqualified endorsement to the program."

"If we can help become aware of their driving habits... good or bad... we'll have contributed to a safer Michigan," Hare noted.

He said 2,125 persons were killed on Michigan highways last year and nearly 150,000 were injured, some of them permanently. In addition, Hare noted, accidents cost Michigan wage earners a whopping $400-million in costs... more than $1-million each day.

The program will feature a team of stunt drivers who will put millions of viewers "behind the wheel" to give them the experience of the "sight and sound of highway slaughter," Hare said.

Viewers will be tested on their driving judgment in two car collision situations, and on their ability to perceive driving hazards.

Other specially prepared sequences which were filmed on public highways will show how accidents develop and happen. One of the test cars will give viewers the feeling that they are in the driver's seat.
