Twenty-five dollar gift certificates were awarded to: Ervin Buehler, 15471 Goddard Dr., Livonia; Robert Keeson, 11697 Brownell, Plymouth; and George Smith, 20059 Lexington, Redford Township.

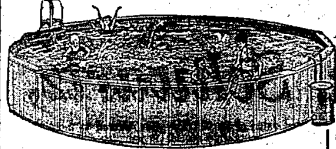

Rabbi, Professor, Audience Settle Problem of Vietnam

Rabbi Sherwin Wine, of the Birmingham Temple, and Prof. John Weiss, of the Wayne State University History Dept., engaged in a tense, sometimes brilliant debate at the Farmington Forum, on Thursday, June 10. There was a full house in attendance at the Universalist-Unitarian Church, and Farmington High School Journalism Instructor Lee Peel did a fine job of keeping order in a room bursting with questions — and more often with opinions — than answers.

The subject was our foreign policy in Vietnam, and both debaters were well-informed and highly articulate. Weiss is a particularly adept debater. Rather than charge some of Wine's opinions head on, he dismissed them with bon mots. In addition, and adding to his effectiveness, he had much of the audience with him. Many of his supporters were troubled. In addition, and adding to his effectiveness, was the fact that many in the audience had come to cheer him on. Some of his supporters were obviously troubled but open-minded. But others obviously had their minds made up before coming in, and paid little attention to the Rabbi's presentation. Evidence of this is the fact that he was asked questions from the audience that he had dealt with previously. In a room in which pacifist
