Thurston Teacher To Study Geology

Thurston High School will be represented next year in a very elite group of 20 teachers of superior ability selected from across the nation to study under National Science Foundation auspices as part of an experiment in maximizing the preparation level of the high school teacher.

Selected from Thurston was Richard Munson, teacher of earth sciences, who will take a sabbatical year for the tough schedule at Indiana University at Bloomington. He was one of the group picked from 600 applicants to study geology, meteorology, conservation, astronomy, and physical geography at the highest possible subject matter level of training.

In this advanced study, students will make use of computers and seismograph equipment. As part of the program, Munson will spend the summer in the field for eight weeks in southwestern Montana in the "Tobacco Root Range" of the Rocky Mountains.

Principal Gets Post In Plymouth

Arnold Pykys, 33, principal of Vandenberg School in South Redford since it first opened in 1955, has been named principal of Gallimore elementary school in the Plymouth Community school system.

Pykys' appointment was announced Monday night when the School Board had made a lengthy study of applicants and determined that Pykys was the best qualified.

Pykys, who resides at 45569 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Livonia, with his wife and two children, taught in the Plymouth school system as an elementary school physical education teacher from Feb. 1952 through June 1954 when he accepted a post in South Redford. Now he is retiring his steps and going back to Plymouth but this time as principal of an elementary school.

He succeeds Donald Alexander, who resigned a month ago to accept a fellowship at Indiana State College in Terre Haute to work towards his doctorate.

Pykys, who starred on swimming teams at Northwestern High in Detroit, in the mid 40's, became acquainted with Plymouth at the time when he worked summers on the farm of Wally Laurie, famed swim coach of Northwestern High at that time.

"I fell in love with the community then and I still want to make it my home as I have for the past several years," said Pykys. "I'm happy that the Plymouth Board has given me this opportunity to return to the school system."

Pykys has a Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Wayne State University and has taken graduate work at the University of Wyoming. He served two years in the Navy in the Atlantic Theater and participated in the Naval Cadet program at Pensacola, Fla.

He is a member of the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies Elementary School Improvement Committee, the Michigan Association of Elementary School Principals, is publicity chairman for Region II of the Association of Elementary School principals, member of the South Redford Education Association, the Michigan Education Association and the National Education Association.
