

CORRESPONDENCE

Northville.

Orient chapter, O. E. S. will initiate four candidates this Friday evening. A banquet will be served at six o'clock and it is expected some of the grand officers will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Vanderhoof have moved to Royal Oak.

A fine new moving picture machine has been installed in the Alseum theatre and was used for the first last Saturday.

The King's Daughters will have their annual tag day July 4.

Miss Della Simons accompanied her cousin, Miss Lida Davis, to the latter's home in Petoskey, this week. Miss Simons expects to spend the summer there.

Children's day exercises were held in the Baptist and Methodist churches last Sunday evening.

Ed. Wood, who had been ill for some time, died at his home here Sunday morning. He leaves a wife, a daughter and son.

The Juniors made about $60 out of their play which was given in the opera house last Friday night under the direction of Miss Helen Bullis.

The circus attracted many Northville people to Detroit Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. J. B. Tinkham very pleasantly entertained the first 500 club at a six o'clock dinner Monday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. L. Tinkham and Miss Helen Bullis. This was the last meeting of the season and officers for next year were elected: President, Miss Helen Bullis; secretary, Mrs. May McCullough.

A number of Northville people picnicked at Belle Isle Sunday. They say they had a good time even if it was a cold day.

The street commissioner and a gang of men are graveling Main street.

Mrs. Wilkes, an aged resident of this place, died at her home on Dubur street Monday. She suffered a stroke of paralysis Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Shipley are living in the opera house block, having moved back to Northville from Owosso.

The senior class play will be given in the opera house this Friday evening.

Mrs. L. L. Brooks went to Chicago yesterday to visit her sister, Mrs. Belle Shuts.

Base Line

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beach of Pontiac visited the latter's aunt, Mrs. J. Greer, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Dennis were called to Detroit Monday on account of the death of the latter's aunt.

Leona Hunt spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Henry Evert.

Mrs. A. T. Rice of Novi is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Simons.

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Clara Simons by Mrs. H. A. Rear at the home of the former Monday evening. About forty neighbors and friends were present and she received a great many beautiful and useful presents.

Redford

The members of the council, together with some others went over the village on Monday with Mr. Dillon and discussed the prospects of a water system. Further steps will be taken to ascertain just what the village can do and then it will be up to the people to decide what they want to do.

New houses are springing up in all directions in Redford. The township and village boards of review have completed their work.

The many well kept lawns and yards in the village attract the attention of visitors and give the place a good name. However, there are a few unsightly spots that detract from the rest and they should be abolished.

Rev. Evans and family are at Kincardine, Can., for a few weeks' visit.

Al. Lamphere informs the Record that he is now selling his own acre and subdivision property.

Sidewalks are being built on the Minnook "Little Farms" subdivision property.

Mr. O. Leary, who owns five lots on Grand River avenue on the Fair Ground Subdivision, has had them plowed and is setting out shrubbery and trees and making other improvements thereon. He will build an expensive home either this coming fall or next spring.

Roy Burgess is still suffering from neuritis and, with his wife is staying at the home of his parents on Central avenue in order to be in a more quiet locality.

Uncle Tom, Eva, Eliza, Simon Legree and the bloodthirsty blood hounds were all here Monday and they were greeted by a full house, or rather tent. It is expected that "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" will be along soon.

The Presbyterian church was taxed to its capacity and beyond its seating ability last Friday evening to care for the crowd that assembled in attendance on the concert given by the members of the Branch of the Vine.

The entire program was very entertaining and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The first number was some imported music by Mr. Gardner, a recent arrival from Scotland, who played the bag pipes.

The music rendered during the whole performance by the orchestra was a delight and each piece was excellent. This was one of the finest features of the entertainment.

All of the numbers were in competent hands and the program was replete with good things from start to finish.

The stage settings, the spring, summer, autumn and winter scenes, with the accompaniment of songs by the little folks, the solos and choruses were fine, and the Colored Recruits and Hodge Podge made the fun.

Those in charge did their work well also and the affair was a success.

Mrs. Sherman received severe injuries in a fall down a flight of stairs a few days ago. She is staying in the home of Mrs. Crawford on the Waterford road in the village.

At the hour of the usual morning meeting the Children's Day exercises will be held in the Methodist church next Sunday.

The woods on the Oak Grove subdivision are greatly improved as the work of cleaning out and underbrushing goes on. This part of the new subdivision is, as contemplated, proving to be the most "taking" part of the whole plot, or in fact, of all plots in the village. People from the city fall in love with the fine natural forest on sight and the lots are going rapidly.

The Red Sox of Detroit failed to show up last Saturday and Redford had no ball game on that account.

Miss Carol Ramsey spent Saturday and Sunday visiting a friend in Ypsilanti.

The house that was being built by Mr. Mansfield on Hartford avenue has been sold to the Whitey Bros., who purchased it for a home for their mother.

Superintendent Stringer has begun the improvement of twenty acres more of the land owned by the Grand Lawn cemetery association. This portion lies just west of the present improved section and reaches to the road by Stuckey's corners.

This part is a very slightly location and as it lies on the Grand River road will add materially to the beautiful frontage of the cemetery.

In this connection it is appropriate to say that Grand Lawn never looked more beautiful than it does at the present time. The extreme careful attention given to all the details of the grounds by Engineer Wilhelm, coupled with his well known ability as a landscape artist, has made this place appear to be more of a park than a place for burial.

Probably no other cemetery in the whole country is growing in popularity so fast as Grand Lawn. It only has to be seen to meet with instant favor by everybody.

We learn that still greater improvements and developments are contemplated.

Arrangements which have been under way for the past two weeks were consummated a few days ago for the sale of the Westlake lumber and coal yard at Redford to Joseph Dallavo. The new concern, which will be known as the Redford Lumber company, is now in possession and Mr. Dallavo informs the Record that he has upwards of 40 carloads of lumber on the way to replenish the yard.

We learn that the new owner is a lumberman of long experience and that he has ample capital to carry on the business in the manner in which the new conditions in Redford and vicinity demand. The rapid growth of the Grand River territory calls for an enlargement in all business pertaining to building and the new proprietor says that he hopes to be able to meet the demand for everything in builders' material that comes in his line.

Mr. Westlake has not made any definite plans for the future as yet, but will devote the next few weeks to the closing up of his business, and will also build a house in the meantime on his lots, corner Hartford and Central avenues, on the Fair Ground subdivision.

PUTS HIS SOUL IN PICTURE

Japanese Artist Gets Spirit in Work That It May Be Given Again to Beholder.

The safety of the nation seems to be fairly well taken care of, but if there is one thing more than another which needs a master's care, that one thing is art, especially futurist art. America has not quite decided about futurist art. We are never sure whether a thing is good or bad until we know what we are supposed to think of it. The newspapers have ridiculed the futurist art and common people have dared laugh at it. Frankly, of course, Americans prefer good plain pictures that don't even require the catalogue for identification, but one is inclined to think that in art as in poetry there may be soul in obscurity because we cannot see it.

If it were possible we might transplant Japanese art. The something besides itself in a Japanese picture is really visible, and soul helps sense as much as sense helps soul. Japanese art, however, grew from the old art of Chinese writing. The Chinese believed that written characters lived, and not only spelled words, but expressed various sentiments in themselves. The Japanese artist creates a living thing. He puts his spirit into his painting so that it may be given again to the beholder. If he accepts money for his paintings they lose their soul. Japanese art is, therefore, impossible to America. An art that grew from our writing would be worse than futurist. If our artists were not paid for their pictures we should have no artists. Perhaps the best we can do, if we must get plain pictures, is to common sense plain pictures, is to take up something along the futurist line. We may not enjoy it and it may spoil the eye paper, but it may be the proper thing after all.

POETIC REALISM

"Yes; I have pictured my sweet heart in my verses."
"Oh! does she limp?"

EVENING OF CHANGES.

Turned into a wake and afterwards into the celebration of a birth, a wedding feast near Tralee, County Kerry, Ireland, had a peculiar outcome. While a merry party was in the height of the enjoyment of the wedding feast, of one of the members of the household the guests were shocked to learn of the death of a two-year-old child who had been ill for some time, but not seriously. The wedding party then resolved itself into a wake, the traces of the festive being removed. While the wake was in progress it was announced that a birth had just taken place in the house, the mother being a near relative of the family.

HEARD AT THE CLUB.

"No walk at all; he's in the auto business."

HIS RIGHT.

"That speaker says he has a right to have the floor."
"Why so?"
"Because he is a carpet dealer."

WRONG TEMPERATURE.

"Miss Jones acted so queerly about that proposed trip to the tropics."
"How did she act queerly?"
"She was so cold about it."

RECORDS WILL GO THIS YEAR

Michigan State Fair Will Be Greatest Ever Held.

PREMIUMS TOTAL $100,000.

Increased Interest Shown by Exhibitors—Program Entertaining as Well as Instructive—Lofly Aim of Management.

THOSE in a petition to know are unanimously predicting that the 1913 State Fair will surpass anything of its nature ever before staged in Michigan by an enormous margin. It will be Michigan's greatest agricultural and industrial exposition. All the pleasing features of last year's fair will be enhanced to a greater degree and new ones introduced that cannot help but meet with the sound endorsement of progressive Michiganders. Fair week will be from Sept. 15 to 20. The educational efficiency of the fair will be elevated to a far greater extent than in previous years, and the entertaining and instructive standards will be higher.

All of the big attractions are not ready for announcement as yet, but there is positive assurance that 1913 State Fair visitors will be furnished with the most instructive entertainments ever exhibited in the west.

There will be actual working demonstrations at this year's State Fair, and to every class of people. These exhibits will convey knowledge to thousands of persons who could not possibly obtain it without the expenditure of thousands of dollars.

No matter in which direction a visitor cares to focus his view at the coming fair, he will observe something worth seeing and thinking about. It will be the state's show window, stocked with the resources of one of the richest commonwealths in the Union.

$100,000 Premium List.
The premium list alone, that of $100,000, is in itself enough to justify the success of the 1913 Fair. This amount is far in excess of that offered by any similar institution of the same size in existence.

This huge sum of money will be devoted toward encouraging production along the lines which will help solve the many problems which confront farmers and the business interests which are dependent upon agricultural productions.

It is the resolve of a thoroughly organized and smooth working management to make the 1913 Fair a powerful factor in the improvement of livestock, farm efficiency, and country citizenship. Clean, substantial information and entertainment for all classes and all ages will be the lofty aim of those in charge of Michigan's greatest Fair.

The number of exhibitors, which can be taken as a good barometer of healthy growth, is now far ahead of last year's array. With the premium list just circumscribed the heads of the various departments are confident of bigger and better exhibits. Even this early adequate space for exhibitors is a problem.

In short, the management will endeavor to supplant the idea that the Michigan State Fair, Sept. 15 to 20, is going to be a superficial entertainment or a home of country vaudeville and show the visitors that it does and will continue to exert a broadening influence throughout the length and breadth of the fairest state in the Union.

AUTO INCREASES DEMAND.

Superintendent Endicott Says Saddle Horses Are Coming Back.

"Never before since my connection with the Michigan State Fair has there been such a ready response from western breeders in the matter of assisting the management to arrange special features and novelties for the 'Night Horse Show' of 1913," said Superintendent John Endicott of Detroit.

"There is an idea abroad that the coming of the automobile has dampened the enthusiasm of the people for blooded horses. Undoubtedly the motor driven vehicle has cut down the demand for the coach horse, but there is no question in my mind but that it has increased the demand for fine and hard horses."

"The proposition is simply this. The business man puts his auto to every use and purpose, does not get the exercise he requires. To make up for this business men have taken to the saddle horse and find that a stiff canter affords plenty of pleasure and fights the weight accumulation of increasing years."

"We already have assurance that some of the best ring and saddle horse breeders of the country will try for the great awards of the 'Evening Horse Show' at the Michigan State Fair, Sept. 15-20."
