that the Farms would take advantage of the offer; rather it would prefer to continue to pay Franklin for this service. According to one Trustee, this relationship between Woodcrest Farms and Franklin has become something of a tradition, with Woodcrest apparently enjoying the status of Franklin addresses, and the clubman-ship of Franklin fire service.

There was a report on spread of Dutch Elm Disease by Township Trustee Elmer Avery, who had made a considerable study of this problem. The result of her study was the usual one—that nothing effective can be done about the disease at the present time.

Neighbors Protest City Development

About 30 interested spectators showed up at a public hearing, in the City of Farmington, on Monday, Sept. 13. Under discussion was a 100 unit apartment development on the north side of Grand River, west of Lakeview, in the valley flood plain area.

The development, proposed by Farmington realtor Omar Sanderson, has a unique design. It is constructed on columns, to afford the same retention of flood waters whether this development is constructed or left in its present topography.

The basic argument against it was presented by some adjacent property owners. The argument was relative to an emergency drive that would be located at Valley View Drive, and would extend south to the apartment development. The residents felt that this emergency drive would allow additional traffic in the immediate area, and would thus become a safety problem if not properly controlled.

The Commissioners decided to take this objection into consideration, and study the possibility of providing two entrances off of Grand River. They plan to bring the matter up at their next meeting, on Monday, Oct. 11.

There were several other less serious objections to the proposed development. Some of the Commissioners stated that the engineering on the flood plain would have to be more detailed, to assure that the project will provide the same amount of capacity of water retention during flood periods as presently exists.

Other Action
The Universalist - Unitarian Church of Farmington appeared before the Planning Commission, Monday night, to request permission to provide off-street parking on Warner Street. The Commission approved the request—though not unanimously. Commissioner W. Allen Nelson spoke in opposition to the request, but it was approved by majority vote. It now goes to the Board of Appeals, for a special exception.

In another case Monday night, the Commission responded to a request for a recommendation by the Board of Appeals, by recommending that the Board grant blanket variance from 50' to 25' in the rear yard set backs in Bel-Aire Hills Subdivision, because of the numerous requests for additions to existing house, due to the excessive shallowness of existing lots.

Bel-Aire Hills was platted prior to the enactment of the 50' requirement in the Zoning Ordinance in 1958. Thus the majority of the houses in the Subdivision failed to meet the 50' requirement, and any additions to these houses require applications to the Board of Appeals.

The Commission recommended that the Board of Appeals grant the blanket variance because these numerous appeals have been approved previously, and the blanket ruling will avoid numerous appeals in the future which would be both more time consuming formalities, and an inconvenience to both residents and the administration.

the Oakland County Reading Research Program during the past year and for this reason was invited to again work with the children who were in last year's first grade study.

While all three groups included in the first grade study will be included in this new project, only two methods will be studied — the Coordinated Language Experience Approach and a Basic Language Arts Approach.

The Coordinated Language Experience Approach utilizes the children's oral language facility, and increased maturity to develop skill in reading and related language arts. Both group and individual reading instruction will be used.

The Basic Language Arts Approach makes use of the practices and procedures defined in basic reader manuals and basic texts for the grade levels being studied. It includes the development and maintenance of a reading vocabulary, word attack skills, comprehension skills and related language activities.

Gerald Harrison to Address PTA

Gerald V. Harrison, Superintendent of Farmington Public Schools, will talk to Officers and Chairman of the Farmington Council of PTA's on Wednesday, Sept. 22, 8 a.m. at the Farmington Senior High School.

Harrison joins A. B. Halst, Vice-President of the Michigan Council of Teachers and Parents, Mrs. A. B. Halst, Historian and Mrs. William Porter, Director of Dist. Supervisors at a school of supervisors.

The "Superintendent's View of Problems, Present and Future," will be Mr. Harrison's theme. Also outlined by the School Board's long range plans that he feels will be of interest to the PTA, and will ask for its support.

Dr. James C. Rennell, Chairman of the fluoride program, would like it known that it is through the efforts of the Council that Farmington has a fluoride program. Dr. Rennell points out that "Statistics prove the amount of decay is definitely reduced by the treatments and children will be benefited by them."

Hygienist Mrs. Irene Marion and her assistant Mrs. Lil Gillespie will spend five days, Sept. 15 through 22 at Cloverdale School. They then move to Longacre School for eight days, Oct. 11 through 20. From there the work progresses to the Grill Road School, eight days, Oct. 21 through Nov. 1. Notices will be sent home with the children.

Council Talks Master Plan

A joint meeting of the Farmington City Planning Commission and City Council was held on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at which was reviewed the Master Plan for the portion of Farmington Township being considered in the annexation program.

It was decided at the meeting to hold a special Council meeting on Oct. 6, to which all the residents in the area affected would be invited to review the master plan. The City Council, upon its acceptance, will officially adopt this plan so that if this portion of the Township does become part of the City, the zoning will become permanent as proposed.

cal societies throughout the state.

"Today Michigan is richer. Our children have a lesson learned upon metal. The travelers on our highways have an interesting and instructive fact to ponder...

"We at the Historical Society

thank everyone who took time to involve himself in this marker, and especially those of the Farmington Historical Society, for preserving and disseminating such an important part of the Michigan story."

When money talks it really tells some interesting tales.
