Melting System Removes Snow

Automatic snow melling for walks and driveways is fast growing into a much sought-after item for many home own-ers with hydronic (hot water or steam) heating systems.

Piping or tubing is buried be-low the surface and connected to the same system that heats the house.

the house.

A small pump circulates a mixture of anti-freeze and water through the snow melting system.

ease, account of Agricutum ficial This is the one tool that has everyone's approval, and we must use it to the fullest extent if a successful control program is to be achieved," said Dean F. Lovit, assistant chief of MDA's Plant Industry Division.

Division.

But in emphasizing the need for sanitation, he also charged that this practice is not being conducted as diligently in many areas as it once

Was.

Lovitt said one of the reasons for the lack of attention to sanitation is because the size of the job has grown considerably; more diseased and dead trees take longer to remove.

siderably; more diseased and clead trees take longer to remove.

The capacity of the Plant Industry Division to enforce removals on private property was badly hurb an userity, he reminded, "and we have not yet recovered.

"Along with the decline in enforcement activity, there has been a decline in enforcement activity, there has been a decline in leaforth and the state of the secondary like to think has played no. small part in whatever success the program has achieved."

A decline in enthusiasm for the propram, brought on part ly by the failure to come up with new control techniques; the properation of the problem in some communities are other contributing factors, Lovitt said. It controls are disease, and the lack of financing to keep pace with the problem in some communities are other contributing factors, Lovitt said. It controls are disease, the combined with praying and other measures in all affected communities and as part of a continual program.
