St. Paul's Hears Report on African Missions

An unexpected interruption during the service started worshippers on Sunday, Nov. 21, during the morning service at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

The congregation's spiritual composure was restored as the interrupter was identified as school teacher Chet Richard who recently returned from a two month tour of Africa. His trip was made in conjunction with the Presbyterian Church's Board of Missions.

The normally staid and orthodox approach to worship at St. Paul's seldom been jarred at what appeared to be a worshipper rising to protest a point in the sermon which was being delivered by the pastor Rev. William Whitledge.

The point being made was that Christians seldom have an opportunity to hear first hand the needs and concerns of peoples who are ministered to by the church in foreign lands. At this time Richard rose to object to the fact that such intimate knowledge was not available.

It was then that Rev. Whitledge invited the intruder to the chancel. Richard proceeded to answer questions relative to the religious aspects of his African journey.

The purpose for having Richard assume this role at a worship service was by way of a report to the congregation at large concerning the work of the Church in other lands.

Chet Richard, who is a teacher at Schwanitz School, explained that as a teacher and Christian layman he was presented with the opportunity to make a trip during a Presbyterian meeting in Pittsburgh some months ago.

With careful and prayerful consideration of what could be gained for his Church by such a mission, he decided to undertake the trip with 12 other persons during the recent summer vacation.

It was reported by Richard that much work needs to be done in this rising, yet still sleeping continent. While he pointed out that many of the educated leaders are greatly helping the continent progress, yet this area of untold wealth and possibilities is in its infancy.

Richard reported that a handful of missionaries serve the tremendous needs of these people. In many cases spiritual contact is limited in some areas to only one time each year. It was pointed out that the Church's Christian world mission, is needed.
