Rev. Coulton Seeks New Challenges After Thirteen Fruitful Livonia Years

After Thirteen Fruitful Livonia Years

After building his congregation from 30 families of 25 in the past 13 years. "I believe in trying to 625 in the past 13 years Livonia's popular Episcopal minister, the Rev. Jay Coul. In Jean of the world, and in developing a Christian distribution and responsible atti-ducts among church members, as at time study means for limit managers, as at time study means at the control of the menting so attend to every factal. "This is what the lay people of St. Andrew's have done."

Coulton has been it grow from a handful of worshippers who have resulted in today's church. "This is what the lay people to see the grow from a handful of worshippers who have resulted in today's church. "This is what the lay people will be a personal chall lenge," the 51-year-old pastor between the church and the church was a sundhed." The world was a sourcal in Church Dearborn. The next was a sourcal in the study with the church was a sourcal in Church Dearborn. The next was a sourcal in Church Dearborn.
