NEW MOVIES

Things you're unfamiliar with often make the best gifts. They're also the hardest to choose. Take the new Super 8 movie film, and equipment. Many people don't know them well enough to judge their gift value. So let me make a few suggestions about who make your best prospects for movie-gifts.

Certainly parents of young children whose family is changing daily. And sports enthusiasts. People who travel, vacationers, people with swimming pools, mothers of all ages, proud fathers, visiting grandparents, citizens, milkmen. Everybody who is active, alive, and fun-loving. Because new Super 8 movies are so simple and easy all of these people can capture fun while they're being a part of it. Maybe you've seen Super 8 movies demonstrated on TV.

You never thread a KODAK INSTAMATIC Movie Camera. All three of them load instantly with a film magazine. Open... drop in the cartridge... and start shooting. There's no winding, batteries drive the film. No stopping unless you want to. You can shoot a whole roll of action at one clip without stopping the film at midpoint. Three camera models let you choose electric-eye exposure control and the option of a zoom lens. The image is 50% larger on the film than regular 8mm, so your movie will be brighter, sharper, more colorful than ever. A whole line of automatic projectors too. All thread themselves automatically. All make the most of these new movies. Now more than ever the nearest thing to life itself.

All of this gives you a sketchy idea of the gift possibilities of the new movie equipment. A five-minute demonstration, I think, would really interest you. Why not stop in for a demonstration this week. It might make your Christmas one you'll always remember.

Queen of Hearts Prepares A Swedish Christmas Buffet

By FAITH GILLESPIE

This week, Swedes all over the world opened the Christmas festivities with the celebration of St. Lucia Day, Dec. 13. The observance harkens back to pagan days in Sweden, when Christians were a persecuted minority. Lucia was a beautiful young woman who was martyred because she went out before dawn, in the snow and cold, and secretly carried baskets of food to the poor.

Nowadays, the eldest daughter of the house comes down at dawn to wake the rest of the family. She traditionally wears a long white gown and a crown of lingonberry leaves and lighted candles as she leads her family, singing Christmas carols, to the fireside, where they breakfast upon special cakes and sweet rolls and coffee.

I miss St. Lucia Day. My own family is a mixture of nearly everything except Swedish, but I lived for years in Minnesota, where the Swedes are, and the customs of my Swedish friends became dear to me. And the food.

Well, no cooks cook like the Swedish cooks cook. If you are planning a holiday party, a buffet supper, an open house, go Swedish.

First, fish. You may use herring (sall) in wine or cream sauce, and the salmon (lake) in wine that also comes in the little jars. Or you may serve cold poached salmon with a sauce made of 1/2 cup sour cream, or whipped cream, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon sugar. If you are having a buffet supper, a can of crabmeat added to your best tomato aspic (if it is) would be nice. If it is to be a big, fancy open house, you may want to splurge and make PICKLED SHRIMP (INLAGED RAIKOR). Alternate layers in large bowl: 3 pounds cooked, cleaned medium shrimp and 3 cups thinly sliced onion. Place 6 or 8 bay leaves on top and add 2 teaspoons peppercorns or 1 cut pickled sweet red pepper. Pour over the above a mixture of 2 cups salad oil, 1 1/2 cups white vinegar, 1/4 cup onions with liquid, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon salt. Cover, refrigerate 24 hours.

There are numerous recipes for Swedish Meatballs (Köttbullar); this one is terrific, but you must use a light hand in the mixing, forming, and browning of the balls.

SWEDISH MEATBALLS

Soak 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs in 1 cup warm evaporated milk. Add crumbs to a finely ground mixture of 1 pound lean ground beef, 3/2 pound ground pork, 1/4 pound ground veal. Add 2 slightly beaten eggs, 1 small minced onion, and the following spices: 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon MSG, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon allspice, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon ginger, 1/4 teaspoon brown sugar. Shape into tiny balls (1 inch) and brown in 3 tablespoons butter, shaking pan to brown evenly and keep balls round, for 15 minutes. At this point the meatballs may be held in the skillet till mealtime.

Before serving, heat them and remove from skillet, keeping them warm over hot water while you do the sauce: Blend 1/2 cup flour into contents of skillet, adding 1/4 teaspoon salt and 3/4 teaspoon brown sugar, and a few grains of freshly ground pepper. Heat till bubbling, stirring constantly; add 1 cup beef broth. Keep stirring; gradually add 1 cup sour cream. Return meatballs to skillet and keep just at the simmer for 20 to 30 minutes. Do not boil. Serve with buttered noodles or mashed potatoes.

For dessert, let your guests serve themselves from your loveliest crystal bowl this most beautiful of soups, FRUIT SOUP (FRUKTOSOPP). Combine in large saucepan 1 package mixed dried fruits (remove seeds from prunes, cores from pears), 1 cup dried apples (a good 4 ounces), 1 cup additional dried apricots, 3/4 cup seedless raisins, and 2 quarts water. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Add 1/4 cup quick tapioca, a 3-inch stick of cinnamon, half an unpeeled lemon sliced thin, 1/2 cup seedless orange sliced thin, and 2 tablespoons sugar. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes more. Then add 1 cup raspberry syrup, which may be obtained in a bottle, or poured off canned or frozen raspberries. Chill for several hours. The soup may be served with slivered almonds and whipped cream. If you want to gild the lily.

Send your guests home with fat red-and-white striped peppermint sticks called polskar (polka pigs) in Sweden, and wish them God Jul.

And a God Jul to you too!

You can buy anything from a tiny nail to the finest furs, from a charm for a bracelet to the finest watch, a record to an organ or the finest television set. You name it and it can be found somewhere in the Livonia Mall where it is Christmas time and all stores are open evenings until 9 until the night before Christmas.

Consumers Power - Presents Bonus for "Koffee Klatchers"

Holiday time is the happy time for the hostess who loves to entertain people in her home. Everyone is on their mettle to devise new and intriguing dishes. Things which can be prepared quickly and served with a beverage are much in demand.

Consumers Power Co. has come up with an ever so helpful method for introducing the home-maker to new and exciting ways of cooking and house-keeping.

Several times a week from now until the end of the season, Pat Yohay and Janet Olsen, Home Service Representatives, will demonstrate their holiday recipes and decorations for various local organizations that gather at the Consumers Power Colonial Kitchen, at 11801 Farmington Rd. in Livonia.

If your women's club hasn't gotten around to making a reservation, you can drop by yourself to see the decorations and equipment but better check ahead and make sure Pat and Janet are there. There is no charge for their services. However, they allow clubs to make money for their group.

For those who think kitchen chores are sheer drudgery, they would experience a quick change of mind, if they saw Pat and Janet in their attractive blue and gold kitchen performing their duties in shell pink tunics. Glamour is definitely the word.

Consumers has a pretty gift of holiday recipes containing such tempters as Ham Loaf Ring, Quick Coffee Cake, and Regal Lamb Roast with minted pear garnish.

This booklet may be obtained upon request. One recipe sure to be a favorite is the following:

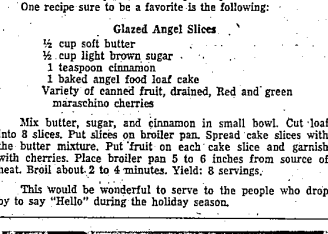

Glazed Angel Slices

1/2 cup soft butter
1/2 cup light brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 baked angel food loaf cake
Variety of canned fruit, drained, Red and green maraschino cherries

Mix butter, sugar, and cinnamon in small bowl. Cut loaf into 8 slices. Put slices on butter pan. Spread cake slices with the butter mixture. Put fruit on each cake slice and garnish with cherries. Place broiler pan 5 to 6 inches from source of heat. Broil about 2 to 4 minutes. Yield: 8 servings.

This would be wonderful to serve to the people who drop by to say "Hello" during the holiday season.

WENDY WENDRICK and Marian Pettys take tea at Mrs. Thomas K. Fishers when the Y-W Wives toured the Christmas Walk in Grosse Pointe this week.
