Girl Scout Activities
By AMY CHARRON 474-0713
Brownie Troop 527 made up of 18 girls meets at the Alameda School and is led by Mrs. Ann Leach. The girls have been kept busy learning different crafts and outdoor cooking. Mrs. Bondy showed the girls how to make swans and fish out of soap. For Mothers' Day the girls made a hot plate out of mosaic tile with help from Mrs. Lower. At their meeting in May they received an American flag from the Farmington VFW Post.

Members of the Troop are now busy getting ready for flyup into Junior Scouts. They have learned the proper way to build a fire and held a cookout at the home of their leader afterwards. The girls visited Troop 127 for an Inter-Troop Activity to see Japanese pictures and returned again to learn Japanese dances.

At their last meeting in June the girls had a cookout and flyup.

Girls who flew up were: Janice Allen, Karen Blaggett, Kim Bondy, Lynne Dorando, Janeen Ellis, Jody Hayes, Marie Laszlo, Toni Nichols, Krista Renolds and Cheryl Seall. The third graders for the Troop next year will be Kim Dervoy, Christian Dwyer, Jill Hayes, Linda King, Lynn Lower, and Thine Passow.

Pattie Simmons, the scribe for Junior Troop 750 reports that they had a cookout in May at the home of Mary Lynn Birkam and that a scout patrol prepared their own food. On June 11, 12 and 13 the girls camped out in tents at Camp Narin.

The newly formed Junior Troop 831 led by Mrs. Wyle Hughes and co-leader Mrs. Phyllis Smolinski were busy in April, May and June. For Easter they made up a basket and presented it to a ward of children at the Plymouth State House. A trip to Greenfield Village was taken by 23 girls and three chaperons. Later in the month Mrs. Claude Centers of Westmore Ave. opened

Students Get Orientation At Western U.

Most of the more than 4,000 freshmen students who will enter Western Michigan University this fall will know something of campus activities and landmarks when they arrive, thanks to the university's summer orientation program.

Farmington students who attended orientation include: John Bitterle, John Karowski, James A. Clep, Sharon Foran, Lynda V. Clorin, Joanne H. Bennett, Cathy A. Glessner, Sandra K. Haviland, Julianne B. Knobl, James J. Harvey, Kristin E. Frank, Linda Cox, Susan A. Frieling, Judith M. Uleru, Nancy J. Ralph, Roberta A. Wieder, Janice L. Foster, Kimberly A. Cargill, Robert A. Huber and Robert L. Linderman.

The incoming freshmen, often accompanied by their parents, are visiting the WMU campus this summer to map out future study programs, meet their counselors and learn their way around university buildings.

Barricade in Good Shape

The barricade on Salvador Street at the boundary line between the city and township has now been totally repaired and will stay as is at least temporarily.

City Manager John Dihan stated that he felt this present barricade was totally satisfactory and did not feel the city could justify spending $5 to $6 a foot for a metal rail-type of guard.

James Platt of Farmington Meadows Subdivision who had voiced objections to the condition and appearance of the barricade to the Council at its last regular meeting reiterated his feeling that it was a very unattractive sight at Tuesday night's meeting.

Councilmen decided to wait and see what kind of job the barricade does.
