YMCA Family Camping Well Worth Considering

Family camping each year becomes increasingly more popular. Parents, especially fathers, find that the demand of job and community responsibilities keeps them from spending adequate time with their children. It used to be that Mom and Dad arranged for children to attend summer camp and sought for themselves a vacation that would "get them away from the kids."

The demands of modern day society tend to pull the family in all directions. Fathers, particularly, often see little of their youngsters except on the weekends. Thousands of "thinking" parents try to counteract this trend by relating vacation time exclusively to the family.

OUR CROWDED national and state parks reflect this renewed interest in a truly "family" vacation. You're lucky if you find the "vacancy" sign out after 4 p.m. at some of the more popular parks. Family tent camping, too, has attracted many families and is a comparatively inexpensive way to vacation as a family.

There are some limitations to family camping in cabin, tent and trailer that ought to be investigated before any family invests in the necessary equipment.

Family cabin, tent and trailer camping is often not nearly as relaxing as families envision it. Travel time can become tedious if one moves from one camping site to the other too often or tries to travel too many miles in one day. Also, unless there is careful planning, a family may find the more attractive camping sites filled to capacity long before nightfall. It's no fun traveling with tired youngsters long after dark trying to find a place to "set up" for the night.

MOTHERS particularly may find family camping in cabin, tent or trailer no vacation at all. She may find that her usual home duties of cooking, washing dishes and cleaning considerably more difficult without her modern home appliances. The load can be considerably lightened if all members of the family help with the "chores."

The YMCA has used its camping facilities in recent years both for traditional summer camping for youth and for family camping. YMCA family camping is designed to minimize some of the inconveniences inherent in camping. Camp Ohlivesa located near Milford, Michigan, some 45 miles from Detroit, is in easy driving distance even for the father that must commute.

The camp devotes its full staff and facilities to family camping the week prior to and including Labor Day weekend. No camping "extras" need to be purchased to attend "Y" family camping. Each family who attends is assigned a private screened cabin with comfortable beds and mattresses. Cabin clean-up is kept to a minimum—just a daily "sweep-out." Delicious meals (including 4 tasty evening snacks) are served in a central dining lodge. The camp staff does the dish washing. Nursery care for pre-schoolers is provided twice each day to give Mom an opportunity to enjoy the camp program fully.

PROGRAM AT "Y" Family camp is flexible — competent instructors teach swimming, boating, sailing, archery, riflery and many other sports. However, all program is offered on a "take it or leave it" basis. (Many adults, in fact, spend considerable time snoozing under a shade tree). Special overnights and canoe trips are planned to keep the teenage campers interested and busy. Social activities are planned for the adults after the youngsters are tucked in bed.

You might suspect that such a family vacation would cost plenty but such isn't the case. YMCA family camp is within the budget of all families may choose the full nine day camp period from August 29 through September 6th or the seven day period from August 29 through September 4th or, for those who have no additional vacation time coming, the Labor Day weekend from September 4 through 6th.

For complete information and rates call Robert Davis, family camp director, at Lincoln 3-0110 from 9 to 5 any week day, or Rose Berberian at the Farmington Area YMCA, 474-3232.
