In evaluating the year's program, Baumunk and Finzel recommended several area's that need consideration. They pointed out that the number of training stations available in many occupations outnumber the qualified applicants. The experience requirements for the small number of boys in training in comparison to the number of girls.

STUDENTS IN the trade and industrial areas must have had 40 to 60 hours of Jacchine operation before they can be legally employed as a tool and the trainee, machinist, meat cutter, or other occupations involving the use of power-driven machines.

Finzel has investigated how other school systems are handling these problems and recommends that clastroom space and facilities be considered to provide the necessary background for students.

It was also recommended that courses in health related courses in health related occupations such as nursing arts, and dental assisting be considered as well as courses in cooking, paking, feed service, laboratory technology, and others.

It was indicated that a county-wide cooperative educa-
