KEPT THE BASE BALL SLATE CLEAN

Farmington Won Their Eleventh
 Straight Victory on the Home
 Lot on the Fourth

The local team kept its slate clean the Fourth and incidentally won its eleventh straight victory on the home lot when the Troy Milk Co. of Detroit were forced to take the small end of a 10 to 7 score.

While the game was what might be called ragged, the death of hits by both teams seemed to keep up the interest and the excitement did not ebb until the last man was retired in the ninth.

Both pitchers seemed to possess all kinds of stuff, but the batters seemed to take kindly to everything and out-drops, hook-curves and fast balls that hopped over the plate with a swish were slammed to all corners of the lot with reckless abandon. All the difference between the Troys and Farmington being that the home boys hit when his meant runs, while the best the city boys could do when they got men on the bases was to take three heavy swings and sit down, Johnson being invincible in the pinches.

The game was really won in the second inning, when Wilber and Harley Warner stepped to the plate in succession and knocked the ball out of the grounds for four sacks apiece. These clouts seemed to take the fight out of the Troys and the result was not doubtful after that.

This Saturday afternoon the boys will try to annex their twentieth victory at the expense of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. defeated Redford several weeks ago and are considered a very formidable team. Be on hand and witness a hot contest.

New Library Rules

At the first meeting of the library board, June 18th, the following rules were made and adopted:

1. The library shall be opened every Saturday from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m.
2. No person shall loan their book to anyone not a member of same household.
3. No person allowed more than one volume at a time and not more than three volumes to a family.
4. No person allowed to retain new books more than one week; old books more than two weeks without renewal.
5. Patrons retaining books more than two weeks without renewal shall pay five cents for each additional week.

Walter Durham Injured

Walter Durham, while in the employ of a lumber company in Detroit, was badly injured last week when he was thrown from an auto truck. He was learning to run the machine when one of the wheels dropped in a hole throwing him to the ground, and the ligaments in his legs were torn. Although not confined to the bed, he will be unable to work for a couple of weeks. He is an Odd Fellow, being a member of Farmington lodge, No. 56.

Buried in Farmington

Mrs. Henry, the aged mother of Mrs. John Creschover, died in Pontiac last week and the body was brought to the home of her daughter in Redford by R. B. Northrop, for the funeral which was held Saturday. The services were conducted by Rev. Loomis, after which they were buried in Farmington.

Houses on New Subdivision

Fred M. Warner's Subdivision on Grand River avenue has started to move, with new houses under construction, cement sidewalks and water and sewer in, nothing will be spared to make this an ideal home site for those buying lots.

Those building residences are Fred M. Warner and Amos Otis of Farmington, Mrs. Jessie Reading and A. L. McMeans of Detroit.

John Fosola will start a bungalow some time this month.

G. A. Garrison of Detroit has viewed the beautiful maple grove for himself and several friends to cut up in acre lots, but owing to an accident to Mr. Garrison on the 4th he has been unable to make any definite plans but which will be in later issue of this paper.

Mr. Vail has information from the automatic extension table company that if the residents in and around Farmington are interested in seeing this village grow they are willing to do their part along any fair proposition that Farmington may suggest.

Mr. Vail is said to have had full credit of booming several towns in Ohio, but insists that all of his plans that help to make Farmington a thrifty and growing village go to the residents and will do all in his power to give you a boost.

Now your opportunity is here, pick it up and use it; it means business to you, who are residents of Farmington or its vicinity. We all like to see good things come our way and its here for you.

Miss Avis Chilson

Miss Avis Chilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Chilson of Plymouth and niece of Miss Electa Chilson of this place, passed away in Harper hospital on Thursday of last week, after a brief illness from appendicitis. Miss Avis was a beautiful character and dearly loved by all acquaintances and that her death is mourned by many was evidenced by the many beautiful floral offerings. She was sixteen years of age and this year graduated from the Plymouth high school, and was planning to prepare herself for her chosen profession that of a trained nurse. The funeral was held Saturday.

Drowned in Orchard Lake

Winfred Finn of Detroit was drowned at Orchard lake Sunday, where he had gone with a party of Seventh Day Adventists for a picnic. A party was in bathing and he had rescued a woman from drowning and when help arrived he sank doubtless being taken with a cramp, as he was a good swimmer. The body was recovered Monday, being brought up from 30 feet of water.

The bigger the crowd the better the game. Go to the game and tell you acquaintances to go Saturday afternoon—Farmington vs. Detroit "Y."

Lose Their Primary Money

Because of a law passed by the state legislature in 1911, regarding the apportionment of the primary school funds one district in Oakland county will not receive its regular allowance of primary money. Livonia township District No. 4, in Wayne county, containing 70 children is also barred from the list. The law deprives districts from receiving this fund if they already have in their possession enough money received from the primary school fund to pay their teachers for two years in advance.

Death of a Former Resident

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. C. D. Potter, wife of the former editor of this paper, which occurred June 25 at Albion.

Team Killed by Lightning

Last Saturday morning during the electrical storm a team of horses belonging to Will Goers were killed when lightning struck the barn. The horses were standing in their stalls in the barn. Mr. Goers lives on a rented farm on old Farmington road.
