PURE AIR FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Attention is directed by the city health department, in its weekly bulletin, to the importance of proper ventilation in schools. It is pointed out that the average individual spends more days upon the sick bed, while of school age, than any other period of life.

Most of the diseases by which school children are afflicted might be prevented. Those who have investigated the matter need not be told that pure air will do more than any other thing to eliminate the danger of infection. In the schoolroom pure air tends to keep up the pupil's physical tone, thus enabling him to resist disease.

A principal or teacher who overlooks the importance of adequate ventilation in the schoolroom is not only inefficient, but a menace to the community in which he or she is employed.

There is a big sermon in the health department's statement that "in the open window lies the hope of the school child of today."—Chicago Record-Herald.

CZAR TRAVELS IN LUXURY.

The private car of the czar of Russia is dynamite proof, and owing to its weight it could not run on the greater part of the European lines. The car is furnished with a chapel, a library, a bathroom, a drawing-room and a bedroom, besides a kitchen and dining room. The czar always travels with one chef, a man now well along in years, who served his father and for a whole the grandfather of the present German emperor.

POSSIBILITIES.

"What was your interview like?" "We both said good morning, agreed that it was pleasant weather and that our party properly managed will have a great future and expressed a hope of another meeting before long."

"What's the advantage of an interview like that?" "Having been held in private, it may easily give the impression that I am one of these trusted advisers you read about."

WELL TRAINED.

Mr. Homebody—The papers speak of your wife as an influential ward host.

Mr. Peewee—Yes; she had lots of practice at home before she went into politics.—Judge.

FAILED TO SPECIFY TRIP

Under the Circumstances Official Naturally Was Retried at His Friend's Remark.

A Kansas City official of the Colossal railroad was one of a number of directors on a recent trip to the Pacific coast, an excursion which combined a little business with much junket. They were gone about ten days and a fortnight elapsed after his return home when he was called to Ohio to attend the funeral of his wife's mother. One of his associates, who had heard of the hilarity indulged in on the western trip, but knew nothing of the later journey to Ohio, met the official at a club after his return and paused a second to greet him.

"Howdy, colonel. I guess you had a grand time while you were away, didn't you?" he gave a sageacious smile to show that he had heard about it.

The other looked up from his paper and granted "uh-h" with an expression of vague surprise.

The friend went on to the billiard room to join some of his intimates, and in a few minutes the official got up and followed him.

"Say," he said, taking him by the arm, "what did you mean by asking me if I didn't have a grand time on my trip? Don't you know I just came back from burying my mother-in-law?"—Kansas City Star.

PLENTY OF IT.

Timid Lover—Johnny, I'll give you this quarter if you'll steal me a lock of your sister's hair.

Johnny—A right—make it fifty cents and I'll steal ye a whole switch!

BALKAN PERFUMERY.

One of the incidental consequences of the conflict in the Balkans is the rise in the price of perfumery.

Of late roses of Bulgaria is said to have practically the monopoly. Various attempts have been made to create a rival product both in the chemical laboratory and in other soil than that of central Europe; but Australia is the only country that offers any promise, while the material which the Bulgarians extract from the roses remains superior to all others.

Balkan mountain roses grow in great abundance, and when cultivated yield marvelous amounts of the extract.

IN LONDON.

London Mother (to crying son, in park)—So you tried to take her hoop away, and she boxed your ears? Well, it served you right.

Bobby—Oh, mummy, mummy, you see I didn't know she was a sub-fragetta.—Punch.

VINDICTIVE.

"Going to make a garden this spring?" "No; I'm going to disappoint a lot of insects that have infested my yard for years, and I won't care a bit if some of them starve to death."

NOT SO BAD.

"Did the play have a happy ending?" "Comparatively so. All money was refunded after the second act."

ON THE CONTRARY.

"Jubbs sold his daughter when she was married." "No, you're mistaken there; I saw him give her away."

DANGEROUS PHILANTHROPY.

"That pretty little missionary looks to me sweet enough to eat." "Then she had better not try to convert any of the cannibal tribes."

HIS CHANCE.

"I notice the private detective you spoke of is using an automobile." "Oh, then he is sure to run his man down."
