Sr. Citizens Plan Gala Fair For Christmas
The Senior Citizens Social Club of Farmington have completed their plans for a "Gala Christmas Fair" to be held on Thursday, November 11, at the First Methodist Church, Grand River at Warner Streets.
The Fair opens at 9 a.m. and early shoppers will find coffee cakes, donuts and coffee waiting for them.

"Grandmother's Parlor" Topic at Questors Meet

"Grandmother's Parlor" was the interesting report given by speaker and hostess, Mrs. E. J. Truesdell of 29546 Briar town in Farmington at the October meeting of Quakertown Questors.

A dessert was served to members and guests after which they adjourned to another room in this interesting home. It was like a room from the past, being completely furnished with antiques which the Truesdells have been collecting, most of which are antiques from Mrs. Truesdell's Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bowman of St. Petersburg, Florida.
Mrs. TRUESDELL related that the typical parlor in "Grandmother's Parlor" contained several platform rockers, life size enlargements of grandparents on the walls and the "center table". On its top would be found the family album, perhaps some souvenirs of the World's Fair and, of course, a stereoscope and a basket of views. This provided the favorite amusement in Grandma's days.

The hostess provided a long table on which were several stereoscopes and a great variety of views for the members to look at. The next hour or so was spent amusing themselves with such views as "The San Francisco Earthquake", American Scenes, some early snapshots dating from 1880; a group of hand water colored views (this was, of course, some 40 years before colored photography was invented), some views illustrating Victorian humor, imported views from Wales and Ireland, a group of scenes which are especially vivid in showing the third dimension effect and lastly a group of home and family pictures. It was truly a nostalgic afternoon.

Mrs. Rodewig Wells Guest

Mrs. John Rodewig of 22246 Ontaga, Farmington, was a guest of Wells College on the campus in Aurora, N.Y., October 22-24.

Mrs. Rodewig was a delegate to the annual meeting of the Wells College alumnae council. She is president of the Detroit Wells Club.

The delegates, with trustees and faculty, attended a panel discussion on "Student Services on Campus". The delegates went to class and had dinner with students from their area, and they had breakfast and then toured the campus with President Louis J. Long as their guide.

Women of Wayne Set Fashion Show
Planning a "fun, fashion and fund" evening for women alumnae of Wayne State University, their husbands and friends, the Women of Wayne are busy making final preparations for their "Night of Splendor" to be held at the Detroit Historical Museum on Friday, November 12, at 8:30 p.m.

Elegant fashions from Margi Franzel are to be presented by Mr. Harvey Lazar. Luxurious furs by Robert will be modeled by Women of Wayne representing the six clubs in the Metropolitan Detroit area.
Following the furs and fashions, guests will enjoy champagne from a "Roman fountain" and dancing to the lilting music of the Pete Baltus Trio.
