Youth Symphony Opens New Season at Franklin

The Livonia Youth Symphony Orchestra will open its 1965-66 concert season with a "Pops" concert Jan. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Franklin High School in Livonia.

Conducted by Lester Farkas, the Symphony has traditionally opened the season with a "Pops" concert.

Featured guest artists on the program will be the Bell

Cast Choir from Franklin, under the direction of William Hall.

The choir will open the program with selections by Bach, Churchill and Banford. Included in their repertoire are: "He That Doth Search The Heart," "Bouree and Fugue in C Minor" and folk songs.

Folk songs to be sung at the concert are: "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," "Bluebird," "Blow Prairie Wind," and "Elijah Rock."

The Symphony Orchestra will perform: "The Syncopated Clock," "Pavanne," "Two Dances from the Bartered Bride," and "Victory at Sea."

Two additional conductors will direct the orchestra during their portion of the program. Andy Treastall, a student conductor, will conduct "The Syncopated Clock" and Dan King, guest conductor, will direct the "Pavanne" number.

The Livonia Youth Symphony Orchestra draws its approximately 60 high school and college age members from throughout the area.

It was founded in 1957 by the Livonia Youth Symphony Society, Inc., who also maintain the Junior Orchestra for junior high students and a String Orchestra for elementary school students.

Adults attending the concert are asked to contribute $1.25 at the door for the support of the group. However, children and students will be admitted free in accordance with the educational policy of the Society.

What do you say after 27 years and 10 months run with a show—and then it closes? Words, feelings, expressions, don't come easy . . . It was Friday night—last Friday night—and Dick Osgood's "Show World" was no more.

Members! Of course like the beginning of it all when they booked Ramon Novarro in the Michigan Theater in March, 1938; and then got scared that he'd bomb. So George "Tre" Osgood, who could easily raise both Hell and the Michigan, decided to put Osgood on at noon for a preview, with Hollywood gossip. Then they invited Novarro's fans to send in a question they wanted him to answer. The answer was that he was establishing the show and Osgood was much more permanent institutions than Novarro proved to be.

Then there was the day they sent that congratulatory note from the executive offices—Show World had come in first in the nation. And then, with 21 years, a time when not even "The Lone Ranger" had a first place in the local rating race.

Memories too come from the night when Jim Londos, the wrestling champ, appeared on the same program with a female partner, Karyl Novarro. Novarro was known as "The Creole Fashion Plate" and he made his own clothes.

And who that heard it could forget the night that Osgood had the guest with the unlikely name of "Fetish," who refused to be interviewed in the air. That night was that you could hear Osgood and the piano—but not Fetish. His piano man had a rather heavy touch.

But now it is some 2,000 celebrity interviews later and suddenly it's over.

Why? Who knows.

Progress—yes, the same type of progress that brought such innovations as the Edsel or the square wheel.

The show has closed for a final time and what do you say?

If your name is Richard Elm Osgood you say, "Well—it's been fun." That's what the Show World, Dick Osgood reporting.

Some quick notes gathered from the show's last night on Monday, Feb. 5, the Supper Show, established the show and Osgood as much more permanent institutions than Novarro proved to be.

The lead, an attractive wife named Agatha, was created by Mary Prus, 15535 Lola Drive, Inkster. Duff O'Hara is portrayed by George Carlton, 15533 Lexington; his wife, Joan, by Shirley Albinson, 26437 Student. Shirley's husband, Don, another veteran of the Bullock's stage, plays the role of "Bart," reporter who generates a scoop in the annual visit of the witch.

"All Because of Agatha" is directed by George "Scottie" Freeland, who is one of the originators of the Bulman Theatre Group and played the male lead in its two earlier three-act offerings. Delores McCormick, 26111 Student, is producer.

Important behind-the-scenes chores are being handled by Kay and Jim Walsh, 15578 Delaware; Elaine and Bill Weir, 16600 Denby; Jean Freeland, 15954 Ryland; Paul and Marge Walker, 18211 Indian Carol Olson, 16668 Lola Drive, Betty Keith, 26450 Student.

Bulman Group Slates Comedy

The Bulman Theatre Group will present its third major production—"All Because of Agatha," a three-act comedy—on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 5 and 6, in the Redford Union High School Auditorium.

The plot revolves (literally, since things get a bit hectic at times) around a house in Salem, Massachusetts, which is haunted by a spirit by the name of Agatha, who has been burned at the stake 250 years earlier. The hilarity results from the witch's efforts to clear the house of its current occupants, a cartoonist and his wife, and an offbeat collection of their friends.
