

Tri-County Republican Seminar To Draw Over 300 Republicans

A tri-county seminar for Republican candidates and campaign managers will be conducted by the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb County Republican Committees in April.

Highest-ranking Republican state officials will address the workshop, to be held April 16, at the Lawrence Institute of Technology, located at 10 Mile Rd. and 12 Mile Rd. in Southfield. They include Governor George Romney, Republican State Chairman, Eli Peterson and Wayne County Chairman Robert Waldron.

More than 300 Republicans are expected to attend the day-long session which will cover campaign techniques, issues and organization.

Our Queen of Hearts "Says it with Butter"

By FAITH GILLESPIE

Semantically speaking, there is no substitute for butter.

Can you imagine how the language would suffer if we were to say, "The baby is a cute little margarine ball!" If you set about to flatter someone, would you say, "I would margarine him up?"

Where would President Johnson's public relations department be if it had to wrestle with the problem of guns or margarine?

How appealing would you find a half margarine rum?

Gastronomically speaking, there is no substitute for butter either.

There may be many recipes where it doesn't matter. My general principle is that if the flavor of the dish is dependent on a particular ingredient, it is going to cover the butter flavor, then there is nothing wrong with using the low-priced spread.

I know well, from years of cooking economically, that you can live a rich and full life and not break the bank. Not only can you find here in the "Queen of Hearts," however, will ever say "butter or margarine," because I figure the responsibility for substituting should be left to the cook, who will take into consideration the dish, the cookware, the tableware, and what is on hand.

Some recipes are worth a trip to the supermarket to buy butter. A good butter pastry, delicate butter cookies like spritz, exquisite buttered sauces to name a few, should not be forced to be around with. Make something else, something that doesn't depend upon the flavor of butter for its special goodness.

The following recipes may be made with either spread. They are designed to add a dimension of taste to your everyday cooking without undue labor or expense. They will brighten company menus too.
