

BULLETINS FROM BENTLEY

Dancers Plan Show

BY BUE DOWELL
Starting tomorrow and through Saturday a lot will be happening at Bentley. Thursday, April 28, and Saturday, April 30, Bentley's Drum and Sandal Club will put on the dance program, "The Art of Living." The Drum and Sandal club is a group of students who spend most of their time after school modern dancing. The dance show, "The Art of Living" took hard work and the two performances should be very good. To bring cheer and comedy into the evening, the number, "Happy Feelings" will be danced. "Hobos" will also be a part of the show.

To keep up with sports many baseball players will be performing on the stage. An actual dance will be performed to show the, "Creation of a Dance." The finale will be "Checkers" and will feature Karen Thomas and Barb Morrison.

AT THURSTON:
Seniors Hold Mock Election

BY LYNN BARNETT
Sophomores have started to prepare for their junior year at Thurston. Petitions for junior class officers were turned in April 21. The election of officers will take place April 27.

Senior class mock elections were held April 21. The winners have not yet been announced.

A Campus Life Meeting was held April 21 during the lunch hour. Mel Johnson, a teenage favorite, was the guest speaker.

Fisher theatergoers will attend the play, "The Subject Was Roses," which begins May 8. The play is a New York favorite which won the Critics Award for the Best Play in 1965.

Thurston students were invited to the International Music Cabaret Concert presented by the Redford Township Music Society. It consisted of American and Mexican Folk Dancers as well as a Bavarian Accordion and Melodica Band. The concert was held April 23 in Redford Union's cafeteria.

CLARENCEVILLE:

Students See Ford Center

This seems to have been a week for field trips at Clarenceville. Donald Everett's Geometry class took a trip on Thursday, April 20 to the Ford Research Center in Dearborn. During the tour the classes were shown various tests for endurance in different automotive parts. The group will take another trip in May to the Ford Production Plant.

The Clarenceville Knowledge Bowl, sponsored by Mrs. Anna Nicodemus, also took a trip to take part in an academic panel. Other schools participating were: Brighton, Clarkston, Bloomfield Hills, West Bloomfield and Milford. From Clarenceville were Karen Doyle, Gale Meyers, Russ Olney and Betty Schmidt.

The girls class basketball tournaments are over and the Freshmen were the winners. In the final game, the Freshmen girls defeated the Seniors, 75-11.

In other sports, the Clarenceville Gymnastic Clubs of the senior and junior high took part in the Flint Open Meet on April 21.

ST. AGATHA ACCENTS

Ballet Sparks 'Kings'

BY MARY LOU MANGOLD
One of the most spectacular scenes in the St. Agatha production of "The King and I" is the ballet "The Small House of Uncle Thomas."

Voshuhl, Linda Urban, Colleen Kelly, Colette Benasuello, Colleen Brazil, Kathleen Burgur, and Suzanne Falke.

Cathy Boyle portrays the miserable slave Eliza, who flees from her master, King Simon of Lerree, with the aid of Buddha's angel, Timothy Bourke. Simon, James Sweeney, and his guards, Arthur Michelin and Douglas Behrend, pursue Eliza, but she escapes by Buddha's miracle, snow and ice, and the king drowns.

WINNERS, of the district eliminations of the annual Michigan High School Forensic Spring Festival several weeks ago at St. Agatha's competed April 20, in the regional contest at Wayne State University.

On her journey Eliza also meets a rainstorm (personified by Karen Sovy), forest (Sharon Hall and Peggy Griffin) and sun (Denise Algeyer). Upon reaching the happy kingdom of Canada, Eliza comes to a small house inhabited by Uncle Thomas (Douglas Behrend), Topsy (Donna Kovarik), Little Eva (Marilyn Forrest) and Eliza's lover George (Nancy Berger).

Representing St. Agatha's were Susan Behrend and Jessie Garden (serious prose), Ruth Brown (radio commentary), Paula Dow (dramatic), Thomas Flamboe (humorous winking) and Edward Gillis (temporaneous speaking). Ruth took second place and will compete in the state finals at the University of Michigan next Saturday.

The Latin I and II classes have extended an invitation to attend the Roman banquet to all juniors and seniors who are enrolled in the Junior Classical League. Admission to the banquet on May 3 is $1.50.

French I classes took the AATF National French Contest on Thursday. The exams of the students who score highest will be put in competition with other's throughout the nation.
