By JERRY WENDT

A dreary, rainy day didn't prevent over 300 stylish clad women from crowding into the dining room of Glen Oaks Golf and Country Club, Farmington, Thursday, May 12. The occasion was a luncheon and wig show sponsored by the Committee for the Preservation of Farmington Township. And they were mighty glad they had decided to forget the unpleasant elements for a spring like scene met their eyes.

The committee had cleverly decided to combine business and pleasure. Following a delectable ladies luncheon of baked turkey, etc. the committee presented some speakers who scored rather telling blows in their behalf.

Principal speaker of the day was Samuel H. Rubiner, past

"We don't want half-day schools, overcrowding, and heavy taxes. All of which are indicative of city government." Samuel Rubiner debunked the theory by the conservation of the Township Officials that this is a meaty area for industry. "You would think," he said with dry wit, "that there were at least 20 companies ready to break ground the day after the city charter goes into effect." "Friends," he implored, "remember this is NOT an industrial area. This is rural living. We did not move out here to bring the city with us."

Rubiner also pointed out the many drawbacks of city government. He used the City of Southfield as an example. The Southfield budget shows a deficit of one-half million dollars. The Mayor is threatening an income tax," he stated. Philip Daniels was the next speaker and following his speech conducted a question and answer period.

So great was the interest of the audience in this issue that it delayed the wig show. The wig show also provided a preview of summer fashions in clothing, make-up and jewelry. Much "in" is the Las Vegas course, you'll have no friends."
