Windsor 'City of Roses' Hosts Freedom Festival Luncheon

Windsor, "City of Roses," was hostess on Thursday, June 30, to the Eighth International Freedom Festival Women's Luncheon held in the Skyline Room of Cleary Auditorium. The gala affair began with the skill of Scottish Pipers as they led the standard bearers and dignitaries to the head table.

The invocation was by Rev. Alex McRae, Vice-President, Windsor Council of Churches. Toasts were given to the President and The Queen followed by the singing of "God Save The Queen" and "The Star Spangled Banner" by Detroit Campfire Girls and Windsor Girls In Training.

Greetings were given by Mrs. Jerome Cavanagh and Mrs. John Wheelton wives of the Mayor of Detroit and Windsor. Speaker, Mr. James Clark, News Editor, WWJ, Radio & TV stated that "one does not know the true meaning of an unfortified border between two countries until one spends some time in Europe."

Celebrities introduced were Comedian Totie Fields and Gail Martin, daughter of Dean Martin. The head table was decorated with red, white and blue arrangements, with a blue sheer skirt over the white cloth, and placed in front of the wall of windows with the skyline of Detroit as the background.

The highlight of the afternoon was the fashion show. This contained a wide selection of what Canada is famous for — woolsens. There were in every color and for every occasion from morning to night. There were pants, suits in corduroy, pinstripe, plaid, argyle, pin stripe, checked and what have you! One outfit that drew ahhhs was a two-piece pique gown. It was flowered; a green sheath that became a long skirt with a plain green top, which was hid under the sheath. One beautiful suit was brown-toned tweed with the collar and lapel of Canadian Lynx fur. A gorgeous evening gown was a sheath of white satin brocade.

Mrs. Fred Bokelmann of the Kenwood Club won one of the door prizes which was a Stueben bud vase donated by the Charles W. Warren, Co.
